Mrs. Frances Hughes Hostess to Class

Mrs. Frances Hughes was hostess to Memorial Baptist Young Women's Sunday School Class at her home last week.

After opening the meeting with prayer, Mrs. J. P. Gardner presented the program, a review of the book, "The Burning Bush," concerning the people from Italy who immigrated to this country and settled in Valdeese in their efforts to establish religious freedom.

Afterwards, Mrs. Hughes conducted routine business and the meeting was adjourned with prayer. She served cake with whipped cream and coffee.

Home Clubber Have April Meet Thursday

The April meeting of the Maysville Home Demonstration Club was held last Thursday in the social room of the Methodist church with Mrs. C. C. Dameron presiding.

After opening with the song, "Loves' Old Sweet Song," Mrs. J. R. Pelletier presented the devotional with scriptures selected from Psalms.

Home agent Mrs. Faytie Gray gave a very informative and interesting demonstration on Harmony in the Kitchen. She used slides to aid her in the demonstration and urged those planning to rebuild or add to their homes to prepare plans and study them before beginning.

Mrs. Pelletier gave a report on pruning and discussed plants and shrubs affected by insects or diseases. She also reminded the ladies that it is time to fertilize.

Reports were submitted with Mrs. Avery Lumsden giving a report on the recent music school and stated the next one will be held at Greensboro June 15-19.

New year books were requested and a report was heard on the latest sewing classes on bound button holes. The ladies were reminded that the picture frame refinishing workshop will be held at the Maysville Community building May 20 beginning at 10 a.m.

Closing with the club collect, Mesdames A. C. Foscoe, Guy Jones and N. N. Mattocks served cream pie and coffee to the 12 members present.

Methodist Conduct Study Course Sunday

The social room of the Methodist church was the scene of a covered dish supper Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

A large crowd was present for the meal and a period of fellowship. A table, covered in white linen, was set up in the center of the room and held a wide assortment of meats, vegetables, salads, desserts and soft drinks.

Immediately afterwards, a study course was held in the sanctuary of the church. Presenting the course was Mrs. L. A. Dillman of New Bern. The topic was The Christian Family and It's Money. Discussions were held during the study with persons giving their opinions and viewpoints on money matters of the family as a whole. Suggestions were given by Mrs. Dillman on how to maintain a budget. Booklets and pamphlets were also given out.

Twenty five persons were present for this informative and interesting study course.

Strategy Versus Tactics

The Administration's announced "war on poverty" drive poses an exceedingly delicate question. There is no doubt of its political appeal—everyone wants poverty to be eliminated, everyone wants to be prosperous. But the means to the ends are not so simple a proposition.

President Neilan of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. recently made a noteworthy contribution to this matter. The way to relieve poverty, he pointed out, lies in the adoption of government policies and attitudes that will permit the free enterprise system to operate at peak efficiency — and so produce more jobs and better jobs. And he added this: "No outpouring of government money, no matter how great, on housing, education, medical care, public works and the like can cure the infinitely complex problems of poverty in the United States."

Trenton, Troop 248, Dover, Troop 114, LaGrange and Troop 375, Arba.

It can also be said that this kind of outpouring of federal money — coming on top of an already-huge deficit — could create more poverty than it would cure. For an almost certain result would be additional inflation, a further degrading of the dollar's value, and a decline in the purchasing power of the millions of people who live on fixed incomes. A "war on poverty" slogan may be sound political strategy — but we are still a long way from adopting the proper tactics.

CAUGHT AND RE-CAUGHT

Elbert Blango of 1165 Hadley Street was indicted for disorderly conduct Monday night at the ballpark, but he slugged an officer and took off in high gear for points north, but a flying tackle was thrown on him by an off-duty policeman and he wound up in jail charged with his first offense, plus resisting arrest and assault on an officer.
