State Releases 31 Varieties Tobacco For Planting in 1966 Crop Year

Thirty - one varieties of flue cured tobacco seed have been approved for sale in North Carolina for the next planting season.

Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham announced the recording after receiving the recommendation of the Tobacco Seed Committee that 15 growers, producing one or more of these varieties, be granted approval to merchandise these seeds in North Carolina.

The Seed Law requires the recording of varieties by tobacco seed producers as a prerequisite to lawful sale. This recording does not constitute a recommendation of any one variety in preference to another. Its function is to insure correct variety labeling of tobacco seeds offered for sale. Samples for these varieties will be grown in a variety conformation program, in cooperation with the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station.

The recordings include one new variety, Speights G-7, as approved by the Regional Flue-cured Tobacco Advisory Com-

Kinston, County Underwriting Water System for Blendspun's New Plant

Monday night the Kinston City Council confirmed its support of a negotiated agreement involving the city, the county and Blendspun Corporation for construction of a water system to serve this new company's new plant three miles east of Kinston.

The city council and county commissioners have agreed to spend up to $25,000 each from their respective treasuries to drill a deep well, install a pump, and a storage tank. There were reports that the total cost of the project might not run as high as $50,000.

Under the agreement which was reached on September 21st with officials of the company the money spent from city and county sources will be refunded to them under a lease - purchase arrangement over a 10 - year period.

The lease figure has not been agreed upon since it will not be known until the installation is completed.

Originally the company had agreed to buy both water and electricity from the City of Kinston but now it is understood that it will buy power from Carolina Power and Light Company, and may possibly buy the water installation as soon as the plant goes into operation.
