

OUR HEALTH

By J. M. Amberson, M.D.

Why are children so prone to skin problems?

While we all have observed the incredibly smooth skin of infants and children, they are still very susceptible to many skin diseases. Dryness of the skin is very common in infants from the time they leave the maternity ward for the next 3 to 4 years. Excessive bathing is one of the major factors in dry skin in children. Very much the same conditions exist in the skin of the very young as in the elderly. In the former, the oil glands have not fully developed; in the latter, age, normal wear and tear have decreased their functions. One way to alleviate some of the dry skin discomforts that many infants and children suffer is with a therapeutic bath additive like Alpha-Keri. A capful or two can be placed in the child's bath, providing a thin, protective covering on the whole body.

Pediatricians have found that the daily use of Alpha-Keri in the bath keeps the skin of the baby soft, smooth and clean and prevents it from becoming dry, itchy—and uncomfortable.

How dangerous is laryngitis?

In most cases, laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, is not a serious condition. It can be part of a general upper respiratory infection or a warning sign that you are doing something wrong—smoking, drinking too much, abusing your vocal chords or perhaps inhaling dust, fumes or other air pollutants. If you have a simple case, it generally clears up in a few days. However, if hoarseness persists or keeps recurring, it can be a warning that something is very much wrong. See your doctor by all means. Long-lasting hoarseness, for example, can be a sign of throat cancer, usually curable if it is caught in time.

What are callouses?

Callouses are nature's way of protecting feet and hands from friction and pressure. In many instances they are quite necessary—guitarists and cellists, for example, work at building up protective callouses on their fingers. If you wear high heels, you've probably noticed that the heels and balls of the feet develop a calloused area for a little extra reinforcement. Sometimes callouses can become unsightly or painful—and then they should be removed. Soak the calloused area and then rub away at the callous with a pumice stone or one of the specially formulated removers? If you remove the dead skin cells merely a layer a day, you will soon get rid of the callouses completely. Then the next step is trying to pinpoint the cause—tight shoes, constant rubbing or whatever—and removing the irritant.
