Farmers Make Money
GROW FINE TOBACCO WIN $2500.00
Hundreds of farmers have made money by using a fertilizer made especially for growing fine tobacco.
They grew tobacco with it—that led Twelve Markets in selling.
230 prizes valued at $2,500.00 have been won on tobacco grown with this fertilizer.
This record was made on tobacco grown with "Southland" Tobacco Fertilizer.
The reason is plain: "Southland" is good plant food—the kind that makes crops pay.
The field test proves to the grower this fact: the better plant food used—the more money made on the crop.
For this reason we advise farmers to buy other brands and test them out beside "Southland."

A Word to Tobacco Growers FROM FARMERS
When tobacco was selling low in 1929—who took off his coat and went to work to help the farmers?
Who made speeches all over the Tobacco Belt—that finally brought about the sending of men down here from Washington to investigate the price of tobacco?
Who went in person to see President Hoover—and urged him to take steps to reduce the acreage in tobacco—in order that the farmers might receive higher prices?
Who visited Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt—two years before he became President—and discussed the question of reducing the acreage in tobacco with him?
Wm. G. Holman, of Greensboro, N. C., is the man who did this, and he is a true and tried friend of the farmers.
Mr. Holman owns "Southland" the brand of fertilizer that has made quite a record for growing fine quality tobacco.
Brother Farmers—let's get behind Bill Holman—out of gratitude for what he has done for us—and use more of his fertilizer this year.
