

Subscribers To Times Urged To Renew Subscriptions At Once

Those Who Are Behind Urged to send Renewal at Once. Unpaid Subscriptions Will be Cut Off at Once.

ONLY $1.00 NEEDED

A number of subscribers to the Times have failed to renew their subscription to the paper and nothing remains except to use the knife and cut these from the list.

It is against the rules to carry unpaid subscriptions, and also against the bank balance. For these reasons unpaid subscriptions will be discontinued at once.

The publishers urge those who are behind to renew if possible. They do not want to discontinue sending the paper, but it is impossible to send it if it is in arrears.

A one dollar bill will do the trick or a check for a dollar is just as good, but it is urgent that subscriptions in arrears be caught up at once.

"SANDY" GRAHAM AT E. C. T. C. FRI.

Reviewed the Progress That Has Been Made in Schools in Recent Years.

Greenville, April 3—Speaking before the student body of East Carolina Teacher's College here today Sandy Graham, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor used a quotation from the State Constitution as his theme: "Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary in good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall be forever encouraged."

"This brief statement of twenty-four words," said Mr. Graham, "constitutes the corner-stone of public education in North Carolina. From the days just after the Civil war when this declaration was made we have come a long way until the present time when North Carolina is accomplishing a task in public education which no other state in the Union has dared to attempt. Without one cent of tax on farms and homes this State is maintaining an eight months school term, giving every child in the State an equal educational opportunity."

Mr. Graham reviewed in detail the progress which has been made, and the astounding growth in buildings, equipment, number of teachers, and children in attendance. He then turned to a discussion of classroom problems.

"I have been talking to you so far about the physical aspects of our schools; the cost, the size the quantity of teachers, the number of tons of coal. I have mentioned the cost of buildings, the number of pupils transported; but this is only one side of our public schools. The facts and figures which I have spoken to you about so far form the basis of a public school system which is unparalleled in all the States of the Union. No other State has undertaken so ambitious a program as to provide from State support an eight month's school term for every child of the State without tuition and without a tax on the farms and homes. The educational world is turning its eye towards North Carolina, and constantly inquiries are coming to learn of our system. "However, there is another and far-reaching question about our schools to which I invite your attention. Our Constitution says that the purpose of education is for good government and the happiness of mankind. Our people today are making inquiry as to why it is that 80,000 children enter the schools each fall and only 27,000 graduate each spring, and of the 27,000 who graduate only 7,000 enter colleges. Our people are wanting to know what is the reason that so many enter but so few stay all the way through. Our fathers and mothers are anxious to know why it is that their sons and daughters apparently lose interest in our schools about midway of the school years and drop out. And so the question is beginning to assert from all sources in this form:

"What is happening in our school rooms?"

"Are our boys and girls being taught to be good citizens and to be happy citizens in accordance with the Constitution?"

"Do our boys and girls make better citizens and are they better fitted to become happier and to be happy citizens in accordance with our public schools?"

"Have we placed too much emphasis on buildings as to number, size and cost, and too little on what is going on in our school rooms?"

"Is our public school curriculum suited to the needs of our boys and girls of today?"

"Are the fundamentals of reading, writing and arithmetic soundly taught so that all who leave the schools know how to spell correctly, read intelligently, and to calculate with accuracy?"

"To you who are in training to become teachers, I leave these questions for consideration, believing that you will realize that in the final analysis the success of our public schools, rests upon the classroom teacher."

"CLODHOPPERS" AT LEASBURG SCHOOL

Large Audience Treated to Evening of Real Entertainment.

On Friday evening of last week the people of Leasburg and surrounding community were treated to an evening of real entertainment when the faculty of the Leasburg school presented "The Little Clodhopper" at the school auditorium.

Miss Elizabeth Thompson portrayed Judith Elliot, the little clodhopper. Mr. Isley, school principal, acted the role of book agent and Judy's sweetheart. Miss Bertha Dixon and Mrs. Connally were unusually good in their parts which were those of the spinster and doting Mama. "Mammy's Boy" was played by Bert Denny. Miss Sarah Newman and Richard Duncan were others playing interesting parts.

A large audience was present on the occasion.

Four new brooder houses equipped with brick brooders were built in Richmond County last week.
