

SIDNEY BLACKMER HERE WEDNESDAY

At Palace Theatre For One Day Only, Wed., April 15th.

A Southern accent has wrecked the career of more than one promising young player on the stage and screen. But a Southern accent was the asset which obtained the first stage opportunity for Sidney Blackmer, a native of Salisbury, N. C. Blackmer, appearing in an important role in "Forced Landing," which comes to the Palace Theatre for all time the virile, action-packed, first went on the stage while he was attending the State University of North Carolina. He encountered stern parental opposition to his chosen career and was forced to return to his studies. His parents made him promise he would not return to the stage. So, after studying law for some time, he took advantage of a head injury received during the college football game to go to California for a rest and promptly got himself a job as an extra in one of the productions of D. W. Griffith.

O'BRIEN DELIGHTS IN OUTDOOR ROLES

"Horse Operas" Are Virile Star's Favorites. Palace Theatre, Saturday, April 11th.

Having once had his fling at straight dramatic roles, George O'Brien goes on record as preferring for all time the virile, action-packed, outdoor romances, such as "O'Malley of the Mounted," at the Palace Theatre Saturday, in which he has the starring role.

But he doesn't make them just because he can ride a horse.

"In fact, we don't even call them Westerns any more," he states. "A Western used to be a picture in which the heroine wore a sunbonnet and the hero rode a horse."

"But that's the old-fashioned idea. Today we buy the best stories available, hire actors who can act as well as ride a horse, go wherever the script sends us for backgrounds."

"There is more drama, to my way of thinking, in some of the wonderful scenery we have photographed in 'O'Malley of the Mounted' than there is in most of the films made at the studios. While the drawing room stars are sweltering under the hot lights, I'm outdoors on a horse having a swell time—doing the sort of thing I like to do."

MILTON TOLL BRIDGE UNDER DISCUSSION

Proposed Bridge Would Cost $70,000 to $90,000 With Each State Bearing Half Expense.

The state of Virginia has no funds available to pay its share of the cost of a new bridge across Dan River at Milton to replace the old toll bridge, it was announced last week.

North Carolina's recent proposal that the long discussed plan be put into effect has been placed before State Highway Commissioner H. G. Shirley, who is reported in favor of the project.

The Virginia general assembly gave Mr. Shirley authority to spend funds in North Carolina for a bridge linking the two states, but omitted to approximate funds. The proposed bridge would cost between $70,000 and $90,000, with each state bearing half of the expense.

DRAMA, COMEDY ANIMATE STORY OF QUINT FILM

"The Country Doctor" Stars World's Most Famous Babies. Palace Theatre Monday and Tuesday, April 13 and 14.

Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Country Doctor," at the Palace Theatre proves to be the "blessed event" of the year as it presents the five famous Dionne Quintuplets laughing, crooning and stealing your heart as motion picture stars.

It is a story bristling with drama, comedy pathos and adventure that presents these universally loved babies in their first feature length picture roles. Jean Hersholt is the hero, as the doctor who dedicates his life to a tooth-and-claw battle against pain and ill in a Canadian fur settlement.

Hampered by official red-tape, sorely in need of a hospital, he antagonizes the heads of his company loses his position because of the enmity of the company manager. He answers one last call for his services, and to his astonishment brings five tiny mites to the world at one birth.

With a startling suddenness, the doctor finds his position reversed. He is the focus of world interest, he can demand and get everything he wants for his tiny charges. And, in the climax, the man who faced a lonely old age becomes the recipient of highest honors from the government.

Contrasted against the dramatic central plot are the comedy roles of Slim Summerville and John Qualen, and the youthfully tender romance of Michael Whalen and June Lang, all contributing to the story's entertainment power.

Henry King directed the picture, many scenes of which were photographed by a company dispatched to the quint's home in Callender, Ontario. The screen story of "The Country Doctor" was written by Sonya Levien and adapted from an original by Charles E. Blake.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

No Transportation Agency Gives You as Much for Your Money as the Railroads

SAFE—The railroads are the safest mode of travel in the world. They have spent millions of dollars to provide and maintain every modern railway safety device and appliance. Not a single passenger was killed in a train accident during a recent twelve-month period.

ECONOMICAL—The railroads are incomparably the cheapest mode of transportation for the average of all commodities over all distances. They receive considerably less than one cent for hauling 2,000 pounds of freight one mile. They receive an average of less than two cents for hauling a passenger one mile.

DEPENDABLE—The railroads do not seek shelter until the storm is over. They are on the job every hour of every day and night, in all kinds of weather, moving safely and efficiently tens of thousands of travelers and millions of dollars worth of freight across mountain, plain and desert. You can always count on the railroads.

ADEQUATE—The railroads provide and maintain the finest equipment and facilities that can be bought—extensive freight terminals, freight depots, warehouses, passenger terminals and stations, an ample supply of all-steel rolling stock for all kinds of commodities, freight service that moves on express-like schedules, with free collection and delivery service of less-than-carload freight.

COMFORTABLE—The railroads have set a new standard in travel for all forms of transportation. They provide the utmost in comfort the year round—the solid satisfaction of all-steel, luxurious, air-conditioned coaches, tastefully decorated dining cars, with the finest cuisine, and handsomely appointed sleeping cars—plus speed, safety and on-time schedules.

In addition to these railway facilities and services, without which the nation's commerce would come to a practical standstill, the railroads are community builders. They are the country's largest single taxpayers. They are big spenders. They are among the first to answer the call of emergency. And they pay their own way.

When you get ready to ship your freight, or travel, remember these facts, and remember what the Norfolk and Western—your railroad—gives you for your money.
