THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1936

In this issue of the Times Mr. L. M. Carlton of Roxboro, makes the announcement that he is a candidate for the nomination of Judge in the 10th Judicial District.

This announcement, in every respect, appears to be regular and in accord with the primary laws of our state. He is a candidate, subject of course, to the Democratic Primary to be held June 6th. We wish to add our endorsement to Mr. Carlton's candidacy and we add this endorsement over the protest of our contemporary—The Durham Morning Herald.

So Person County's Democracy presents our townsman, Mr. Carlton, to the electorate of the 10th Judicial District and asks the people to consider his qualifications for the office of Judge. Mr. Carlton was born in the district and has practised law here for the past 36 years. He is eminently fitted, both by experience and temperament, for the position of Judge. The Democratic Primary of our state proposes that any Democrat qualified by residence and training may enter his candidacy for office, subject as I say, to the endorsement of the Democratic voters in said primary. So, then, if the Judiciary be in politics, it is there not by reason of Person County's entry. It is there by reason of a statute enacted by a Democratic legislature. It is a state law, the purpose of which is to give the people a voice in naming its candidates, selecting its standard bearers for the November election.

So, then, if the Durham Morning Herald be aggrieved, and evidently it is, then hurl your grievance at North Carolina's primary law, for certainly, Person County's entry is within the law.

We are perfectly willing to leave our candidate and his cause to the legal way of nominating candidates.

The June Primary is almost here and if Mr. Carlton's entry brings the judiciary into politics, it will not be in politics for long. Somehow we have an idea that the people on June 6th will name a candidate whose judicial poise, and whose sense of justice, when elected and takes office then finds politics in the Judiciary, will immediately adjourn politics to administer justice to the people of our state.

Person County has this confidence in its candidate.

Of course, our county has been a little bashful and backward in asking for district honors, but somehow, we have an idea that we have a man fitted for the position of Judge. Anyway, we are willing to leave his qualifications to the Democrats of Person, Durham, Orange, Granville, and Alamance. It is just our way of doing, as the Democrat party would have us do. That is to say, leave our cause to the Democrats of our Judicial District. If this be sinning against the Judiciary, forgive us, for we know no other way.

Person County's Democracy presents Mr. Carlton for Judge. We invite Democrats of Durham, Orange, Granville and Alamance to join hands with us in promoting a well-balanced Judiciary, because our man will make an even balanced Judge.

Yes, we repeat, if it be wrong for Mr. Carlton to enter the primary for the nomination of Judge, then let the Primary make its confession to the Judiciary. Mr. Carlton chooses the Primary as a Democratic way to his nomination. Is there another way? If so, will the Herald advise us?

YOUNG TAR HEEL FARMERS SPONSOR BANQUET

The agricultural students of Bethel Hill high school were hosts to their dads at a Father and Son banquet held in the Young Tar Heel Farmer chapter room at the agricultural building on Friday night, April 10. Covers were laid for eighty-six and the girls of the Home Economics department served a meal of three courses. A. G. Bullard presided and Henry Woody acted as toastmaster.

S. G. Winstead, former county superintendent of schools, was the chief speaker of the evening. In speaking of the "Future Farmers of America" he pointed out the need of future farmers adjusting themselves to the changes being made in agriculture.

Wallace Tingin, treasurer of the Y. T. H. F. club, in summarizing the results of the supervised farming that the students have been doing under the direction of the teacher of agriculture, brought out the fact that the labor income per student was one hundred and twenty-five dollars during the crop year 1935. Others who made short talks were: R. B. Griffin, W. R. Wilkerson, C. T. Hall, Elvin Tuck, James Shotwell and A. G. Bullard.

String music was played throughout the program by S. P. Gentry, R. B. Pixley, E. F. Wilborne and three musicians from Roxboro.

A special exhibit of shop work completed by the students during the past two weeks was open to the guests. This exhibit consisted of tool boxes, study tables, wagon body, wheelbarrows, wardrobes, milking stools, chick coops, ironing boards, lawn chairs and a number of other useful items at home.

This very successful banquet was sponsored by the local chapter of Young Tar Heel Farmers, a state organization of students taking vocational agriculture, and was made possible through the splendid cooperation of the Home Economics department. Dishes for the banquet were loaned by Roses 5 and 10 cent Store, Roxboro, North Carolina.
