

"GOD'S COUNTRY AND THE WOMAN" AT PALACE MON.

Will Stay Here for Two Days, Mon. and Tues. Feb. 1st and 2nd.

"God's Country and the Woman," Warner Bros.' brilliant picturization of the James Oliver Curwood novel of the same name—dealing with a feud between lumber companies of the deep forests of the great North-West—opens at the Palace Theatre, Monday with George Brent and Beverly Roberts in the leading roles.

The thrillingly dramatic romance of the story is heightened by the fact that the scenes—almost all of which are in the open—were photographed wholly in natural colors.

Brent and Miss Roberts have an excellent supporting cast including such outstanding favorites as Barton MacLane, Robert Barrat, Allen Hale, El Brendel, Billy Bevan, and Joseph King. Hundreds of real lumberjacks appear in the exciting scenes.

Brent is first seen as a rich idler, who makes a casual visit to the woods where his brother owns a vast track of timber—and is attempting by crooked methods to injure the business of a rival lumber company managed by a girl, Miss Roberts.

Discovering the trickery of his brother, Brent denounces him and is about to go back to the city when his brother has him shanghaied and returned to the deep woods where the lusty melodrama of love and hate runs its furious course.

There are fights galore between the steel-muscled lumbermen of the two camps. There are thrilling scenes of a runaway log-train and the blasting of a log jam—there are glamorous love scenes—stirring action.

BUSHY FORK P. T. A. ANNOUNCES REVISED COMMITTEE LIST their grade-mothers, Mrs. W. K. Moore and Mrs. J. L. Hester. They served delicious cup cakes and hot chocolate to the entire grade.

At the chapel exercises on Friday morning, Mrs. VanHook's grade, the fourth, gave a most instructive program. It consisted of two parts, the 1st. part being "The New Year." This gave the origin of the names for each of the twelve months and also something definite to remember about each month. The second part on the program was a playlet on "Thrift."

The P. T. A. has made considerable progress since September and we hope that every parent will make every effort to be an active member.

HOGS NEED GREEN FEED IN WINTER

When Possible Hogs Should be Allowed to Graze on Green Forage

Green feed will help keep the swine herd vigorous and healthy during the winter months.

When possible, hogs should be allowed to graze on green forage. If pasturage is not available, a green, leafy, legume hay should be fed, said H. W. Taylor, extension swine specialist at State College.

Green feed contains vitamin A, which is essential for healthy swine, he continued. Alfalfa, soybean, and lespedeza hays make good winter feed.

Taylor also warns growers not to let pigs feed too long on soybean and peanut fields, as this tends to produce soft, oily pork that is not desirable for home consumption or for marketing.

After pigs reach the weight of 85 pounds, they should be put on a feed of corn and fish meal or tankage. Cottonseed meal may be mixed with the fish meal or tankage, in equal parts, if desired.

Hogs like cottonseed meal, it helps stimulate their appetites, and it is a good "hardening ration," he explained.

The corn and protein supplement should, of course, be balanced with an abundance of leafy, green feed, he said.

This ration, if fed until the pigs attain a weight of 200 or 225 pounds, will produce pork that is firm and marbled, Taylor pointed out.

He emphasized that when hogs are fed a softening ration for a long time, they cannot be made to produce good firm meat by feeding them corn for a few weeks.

KEEP FLOCK LAYING ALL SHE WANTS

Porter Bryan, Madison County poultryman, says it is not hard to keep chickens laying through the cold weather months.

It's mainly a matter of getting a flock of good birds and taking proper care of them, he told George Miller, Madison County agent of State College extension service.

Bryan has a flock of 47 White Leghorn pullets which have been laying an average of three eggs per hen every four days this winter.

During the month of December, the daily flock average was 36 eggs, and one day he got 43 eggs from the 47 hens, he told Miller.

Last winter he remodeled his poultry house according to plans furnished by the extension service. The house provides for adequate ventilation, yet protects the birds from cold and drafts. It is comparatively easy to keep sanitary.

He keeps broken oyster shells before the hens all the time, and on fair days he turns them out to pick up grit and find green feed. Every morning and evening he puts a fresh supply of lukewarm water in the drinking fountains.

In addition to the mash and green feed, he gives the birds sour milk every day, and keeps the water fountain and feed hoppers scrupulously clean.

As a check to show him exactly what his birds are doing, and how much he is making off the flock, he keeps a record of all expenditures and cash receipts.

What Bryan has done, any poultryman can do by raising only high quality birds and taking good care of them, Miller stated.

J. A. Hannum, a demonstration farmer of Ramseytown, Yancey County, sold 1,462 pounds of Burley tobacco from eight-tenths of an acre for $960.50 or 65.7 cents a pound.

WESTERN UNION TO CO-OPERATE

Western Union has placed its nation-wide system of Telegraph offices at the disposal of the President's Birthday Ball Committee for receiving 25 cents from each person who places his or her signature on a multiple signature birthday greeting reading:

"Happy Birthday, Mr. President. I am proud to participate in the sending of this personal greeting to you and thereby help in the fight against infantile paralysis to which you have given such notable leadership."

Signatures from every city, town, and hamlet will be mailed to New York, where they will be bound into what probably will be the greatest birthday greeting in history. 100 per cent will be turned over to the National Birthday Ball Committee, which will arrange for proper credit for each community.

"HOW CAN YOU DO IT?" has been asked us frequently by parties who have viewed the very useful and beautiful pen and pencil sets at the Times' office which we are giving away absolutely free. The offer expires soon. Better pay us a visit today.
