

CORONATION OVER, THE ROYAL SCENE SHIFTS ACROSS THE CHANNEL

Although mystery still surrounds the date, the Duke of Windsor is expected within a fortnight to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield, twice-divorced Balmorean, for whom he renounced the throne of Great Britain. ### The Agricultural Outlook

Recent agricultural developments indicate that the cash position of American farmers continues to improve but suggests that the administration considers the agricultural situation in some of its phase as still in need of government assistance, states the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

The level of prices received by farmers is close to the pre-war parity with that of prices paid by them for commodities that they purchase. Unquestionably, the increased consumption of agricultural products, higher prices, and the aid given to the industry by the Administration since the beginning of the depression have worked to place American farmers as a group in the best position in many years.

The expectation of a large winter wheat crop in the face of high prices The Survey continues, adds one more element of encouragement to the agricultural outlook. The official crop report stated that the condition of winter wheat indicates a crop of bumper proportions, despite an acreage abandonment of 17 per cent. Last autumn 57,187,000 acres were planted to wheat, the highest figure on record; and the acreage left for harvesting is also the largest recorded, with exception of that in 1919. The promise of a bumper crop appeared at a time when farm stocks of wheat were the lowest in twelve years for which records have been kept.

The House Agricultural Committee, contrary to the President's wishes, voted to eliminate the provisions of the Farm Tenancy Bill calling for the expenditure of $50,000,000 annually by the government for the purpose of financing capable farm tenants desiring to own their own farms. Last February the President submitted to Congress the report of his Special Committee on Farm Tenancy and urged that the committee's recommendations be adopted. Furthermore, the day before the House Agricultural Committee voted on the bill, the President requested that the provisions authorizing government aid to tenants desiring their own farms be approved. Press reports indicate that the President realizing the strength of the opposition to this provision, had made it known that he would be satisfied if the principle of government assistance to farm tenants were incorporated in the bill without reference to any specified appropriation for putting the principle into effect.

FARM TENANCY BILL

The Farm Tenancy Bill was reported to the House of Representatives along with one majority opinion and two majority opinions. The bill calls for expenditures of $50,000,000 annually for the next five years for loans for tenant purchases, of $75,000,000 in each of the next two years for rehabilitation loans, and of $70,000,000 over the next two years rehabilitations chases of submarginal farm lands. The majority report stated that the bill would improve the farm tenant situation and demanded a reduction in taxes on farms as a means of improving the farmer's position. One of the majority reports declared that while the purpose of the bill is to convert farm tenants into farm owners, its objectives would be defeated unless a time limited were specified during which a new owner could not transfer title of his property. Otherwise, it was pointed out, the government would be aiding not farm owners but land speculators.

The recommendations of the Senate's special committee for investigation of cotton-marketing practices have been placed before the Senate Agricultural Committee, and a study of these findings commenced about the middle of last month. The special committee's report is based on a two-year survey of cotton-marketing conditions, and it contains suggestions for a number of specific reforms. Among other things it is proposed to eliminate or curtail official cotton crop estimates, which, although admittedly compiled along scientific lines, are referred to as nothing more than "scientific guesses" that often lead to price movements which are not justified by future developments.

Not only is pretty Miss Clara Jerstad, deputy United States marshal of Seattle, Wash., shown above, one of the few women in the United States empowered to arrest persons on federal charges, but she is regarded as one of the best shots among federal peace officers. In a recent meet at the Fort Lawton pistol range she scored 85 out of a possible 100 with a heavy service revolver.

Dog's Tonsils Out While You Wait

If your dog will not eat as heartily as usually, perhaps he has tonsillitis. The above picture shows Dr. Clifford Wagner, left, and Dr. Harry D. Roberts, Cleveland veterinarians, as they removed the tonsils of Fritz, a Great Dane. The doctors assert that tonsillitis in dogs is a common ailment in some parts of the country.

in regard to the government's loan policies and crop reduction programs and, while favoring these activities an emergency expedients, citizens them as having "failed to bring about any permanent economic recovery." The subcommittee concluded that great benefit could be brought to growers of cotton and manufacturers of cotton products by the extension of sound economical credits, the removal of foreign trade barriers, and the revival of foreign markets.

THE WEAKNESS OF ESAU

Gen. 25: 27-34
27 And the boys grew: and E'sau was a cunning hunter, a man of the field: and Ja'cob was a plain man, dwelling in tents.
28 And I'saac loved E'sau, because he did eat of his venison: but Re-bek'ah loved Ja'cob.
29 And Ja'cob sod pottage: and E'sau came from the field, and he was faint:
30 And E'sau said to Ja'cob, Feed me, I pray thee, with the same red pottage; for I am faint: therefore was his name called E'dom.
31 And Ja'cob said, Sell me this day thy birthright.
32 And E'sau said, Behold I am at the point to die: and what profit shall this birthright do to me?
33 And Ja'cob said, Swear to me this day; and he swear unto him: and he sold his birthright unto Ja'cob.
34 Then Ja'cob gave E'sau bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and rose up, and went his way: thus E'sau despised his birthright.

hold, thy brother E'sau, as touching thee, doth comfort himself, purposing to kill thee.

43 Now therefore my son, obey my voice; and arise, flee thou to La'ban my brother to Ha'ran;

44 And tarry with him a few days, until thy brother's fury turn away; 45 Until thy brother's anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou hast done to him: then I will send and fetch thee from thence: why should I be deprived also of you both in one day?
