CALDWELL HAS A NEW FARM BLDG.

More Than 1,000 People Gather In Lenoir To Celebrate Opening

More than 1,000 citizens of Caldwell county gathered in Lenoir, Saturday, June 26, to celebrate the opening of the modern, new agricultural building dedicated to the services of the rural people of the county.

Meeting in the county courthouse, the people heard talks by Miss Ruth Current, state agent in home demonstration work; Dean I. O. Schaub, director of extension at State College, and Honorable R. A. Doughton, congressman from that district. Mr. Doughton presented the building to the county on behalf of the federal government and responses were made by farmers and others active in the securing of the building.

The new building is a modern, three-story brick structure built by the joint efforts of the county and the WPA. The basement houses the home demonstration curb market, while the ground floor contains the offices of the home and farm agents and the meeting places of the farmers and the farm women. The third floor houses the county library.

A feature of the dedicatory exercises was a mammoth picnic staged on the grounds of Davenport College where citizens of Lenoir and visitors were guests of the farm people. Three long tables laden with choice food were used from which to fill the plates of the hungry populace. A fourth table was covered with an assortment of pie, cake and other sweets. Large tubs of iced tea and other beverages were placed in convenient intervals under the trees.

Much credit was given to county agent O. R. Carrithers for his efforts to secure the building for the county.

ROTENONE DUST FOR BEAN BEETLES

Sure Death To Beetles...But Harmless To Human Beings

Mexican bean beetles are raiding North Carolina's gardens and truck patches again this year.

But the invasion can be stopped with a counter-attack of rotenone spray or dust, said J. O. Rowell, extension entomologist at State College.

Although this material is sure death to the beetles, he added, it is harmless to human beings. Also, it is comparatively inexpensive to use.

Wherever beetles are found on bean plants, or egg clusters appear on the underside of the leaves, Rowell said the growers should start spraying or dusting with derris or cube root containing rotenone.

To make a spray, use dust containing 4 percent rotenone. Mix 1 1-2 pounds of dust with 50 gallons of water, or 1 1-2 ounces of dust in 3 gallons of water if a smaller quantity is desired.

Spray the plants thoroughly at the rate of 90 to 100 gallons per acre. To be effective, the spray must reach the underside of the leaves.

Or if dusting is preferred, use finely ground derris or cube root dust containing 3-4 of one percent rotenone, making sure that the dust settles on the under side of the leaves as well as the rest of the plant. Apply dust at the rate of 15 to 20 pounds per acre.

Repeat the spraying or dusting every few days until the beetles have been eradicated, Rowell pointed out.

When making a spray, he continued, use only a dust with a diluent that will mix readily with water. The label on the package usually tells whether it will mix with water.

Calcium arsenate and arsenate of lead are injurious to plants and are not recommended, Rowell concluded.

INSURANCE - Your only protection against hail . . . . .

Article Taken From Times
Thursday, July 1st.

Person County was visited by a terrific hailstorm Wednesday afternoon about one o'clock and from all reports it looks like one entire section of this county running from Allensville and down the Virgilia road was hit. Crops were ripped to shreds and even small tobacco plants were torn all to pieces. After the storm had passed the ground was literally covered with ice and in some places it was covered one half inch deep.

Many state that it was the worse that they had ever seen at this time of the year.

The damage to crops was great and all reports are not yet in. Both corn and tobacco crops suffered in a big way.

This was the first hail of the season and put fear into the hearts of the farmers. It is one thing that they cannot control and three minutes of hail may run into a loss of thousands of dollars.

Editorial from Times
July 1st

Hail, the farmer's fear at this time of the year visited Person County Wednesday. It was one of the hardest hail storms for this season that is remembered. Some places were hard hit and as usual the storm cut a path across one section of the county. It is too late to re-plant and farmers who were hit can only look at the damage, unless they had insurance.

Your tobacco crop may look good or it may look only fair, but how would you like for hail to ruin it.

You will have to admit that it would place you in a tough place.

FARM QUESTIONS ANSWERED

QUESTION: How often should tobacco be primed to insure a quality leaf?

ANSWER: This depends upon the maturity of the leaves and seasonal conditions, but usually the plants should be primed at least once a week during normal seasons. Only uniform, ripe, well-developed leaves should be primed. Begin the harvest as soon as the bottom leaves turn yellow. The first leaves can be pulled a little greener, if the leaf is matured, than at any other priming. A uniformity in pulling and handling tobacco will add as much to the quality as any other one factor. Precautions should therefore be taken not to bruise the leaves in handling.

QUESTION: When should cockers be caponized for the early market?

ANSWER: As it usually takes from eight to eleven months to properly develop and finish a capon, the birds should be caponized from mid-June until the first of August so as to reach the national market between January first and March first. Vigorous birds that have proper care and feed will develop in a shorter time. Caponizing at this time will also take late-hatched cockers off the market when broiler prices are usually low. Birds from one and one-half to two pounds in weight may be used with the smaller birds having a greater chance for a complete operation and development.

QUESTION: How can I keep cream sweet and fresh until it is marketed?

ANSWER: Immediately after milking the milk should be strain-

IRWIN IS DECLARED 'CRAZY AS BED BUG'

Prosecution, However, Plans Scientific Analysis Following Indictment

New York—Branded "crazy as a bed bug" by his celebrated lawyer, Robert Irwin moved nearer by three first degree murder indictments tonight to punishment for the Gedeon Easter triple slaying.

Prosecution plans to ascertain scientifically the sanity of the 29-year-old sculptor-bus boy were held in abeyance after his counsel, Samuel Leibowitz, obtained a 24-hour postponement of plea at his arraignment.

ed and separated. Place the cream in a can and cool the cream by submerging the can in cold water so that the entire contents are below the surface of the water. Stir occasionally to hasten cooling and keep the container in cold water until ready for market. DO NOT add warm cream to the cold cream. If this is done in sufficient quantity, the temperature of the cold cream will be raised and the bacterial action stimulated which will endanger the quality of the entire batch.

The indictments were returned by the grand jury 10 minutes after a 40-minute hearing at which the principal witness was Mrs. Ethel Kudner, for whom, Irwin said, his homicidal "love-hate" led him to kill three persons who accidentally crossed his murder bound path—her sister, her mother and a lodger.

After a sound sleep and several full meals, Irwin was taken from the Tombs prison to general sessions.

There, clad in the white linen suit he has worn since his arrest Sunday in Chicago, he stood fingering his panama hat and giggling as Leibowitz told the court:

"In my opinion, this man is crazy as a bed bug, and before the proper plea, according to the code, can be entered, I want an adjournment of 24 hours."
