

Two Confederate Vets Expected For Re-Union In Roxboro Sat.

Exercises Will Be Held At Community House At 11:00 A. M.; Dinner Will Be Served By Daughters Of Confederacy

MRS. R. G. COLE PRESIDENT OF LOCAL CHAPTER

Mrs. R. G. Cole, president of the Daughters of the Confederacy, announced today that "Old Soldiers Day" exercises would begin promptly at 11:00 o'clock Saturday, May 7, in the Roxboro Community House. Two veterans of the Civil war are expected to attend this meeting, Mr. Chas. Reade and Mr. Bob Oakley. Mr. Oakley has been in bad health but his condition has improved to such an extent that he expects to be able to attend. Mr. Reade has already made his plans to be on hand.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will have charge of the program and the meal that will follow. J. S. Merritt will address those present for this occasion.

The two veterans who are expected to attend this meeting are the only two who are now living in Person County. For the past years the ranks have been getting thinner, but "Old Soldiers Day" is always looked forward to by each and every one who remains.

Dinner will be prepared and served by the members of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Roxboro Defeats Helena

Roxboro, May 4th. — Roxboro trounced Helena today by 13 to 1.

The Roxboro team today introduced a flock of new players, including Lewis, Crowe, Cooke, Slaughter, Rickman and Struck of the North State league, Lester James of the Bi-State league, Gibson of the Tobacco states league, and Suitt and Roscoe Gentry of Longhurst.

It is much better to conserve your best fields while they are good, rather than wait to reclaim those fields after they are in gullies.

Striking Sailors Stage Riot

A private battle was staged by the two men at right during a riot between sailors and longshoremen in San Francisco. The riot started when three gangs of longshoremen broke through the picket line established by the Sailor's Union of the Pacific.

OLD BELT MARKETS ASK EARLY OPENING

U. S. Tobacco Association May Consider Petition In Annual Meeting

(From Oxford Ledger)

A big issue for tobacco farmers and tobacco warehousemen in this section may come up for discussion at the annual meeting of the United States Tobacco Association at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on June 30, July 1 and 2.

Warehousemen in the Old Belt are waging a determined movement to have their markets opened on a parity with the markets in the Middle Belt and if the petition is granted, it probably will cut a big dent in receipts of the Middle Belt.

At present there is a two weeks' difference in the opening of the markets in the Middle Belt and the Old Belt and if the Old Belt petition is granted, it probably would mean that the Middle Belt opening would be delayed for a week and the Old Belt opening moved ahead for a week.

Old Belt Markets, particularly the larger markets, are behind the proposal with full organization. There has been little outward manifestation of concern over the situation as it would apply to the Middle Belt, although warehouse operators readily admit that such action would be a dagger in the heart of their business.

He extends a cordial invitation to all to visit his studio.

QUOTAS ENCOURAGE SUPERIOR TOBACCO

Many N. C. Farmers Do Not Use Enough Potash; Potash Makes Bright Leaf

Although there is no sharp dividing line, tobacco growers fall into two general classes—those who try to grow the most tobacco and those who attempt to produce the best quality leaf.

Those in the first class often sacrifice quality for greater production by planting more acreage than they can tend properly, says Lloyd T. Weeks, assistant tobacco specialist for the State College Extension Service.

Under the marketing quotas adopted by tobacco growers and administered by the AAA, the "quantity" growers are encouraged to become "quality" growers.

Weather conditions often affect leaf quality, but even in bad years, with proper care, the farmer can grow good tobacco.

Many North Carolina producers of flue-cured leaf do not use enough potash. Experiments have shown that plenty of potash makes a bright, smooth leaf that is easy to cure. Although fertilizers have been applied already in most sections, it is still possible to remedy potash shortages by adding a side dressing of 60 to 120 pounds of sulfate of potash to the acre. This should be done within 20 days after transplanting.

Plans for the control of such diseases as root knot and Granville wilt must be made at least two years ahead, so now is the time to start control plans for the 1940 crop.

Where root knot, or "big root", is prevalent, a proper rotation effectively reduces damage. A suggested rotation is to follow the tobacco crop with a root-knot resistant legume, such as peanuts or velvet beans. This can be followed the second year with a weed fallow. Tobacco is planted again the third year.

E. J. WOODHOUSE KIWANIS SPEAKER

Chapel Hill Club Met With Roxboro Club Last Monday Night At Hotel

Stuart Rabb Entertains Clubs

Approximately eighteen Kiwanians from Chapel Hill, N. C., met with the members of the Roxboro Kiwanis Club last Monday night at Hotel Roxboro. This joint meeting was presided over by Wm. Warren, president of the Roxboro Club.

S. B. Winstead of the Roxboro club, delivered the address of welcome. J. M. Saunders responded to this address.

Stuart Rabb, a senior of the University, gave an excellent imitation of President Roosevelt in one of his famous fireside talks. His voice coming over a loud speaker sounded exactly like that of the president. He also imitated other characters and the entire sketch was very amusing.

Dr. E. J. Woodhouse of the University faculty addressed the gathering along political lines. He urged those present to always vote for the man that was running for office and not to favor any certain candidate because of friendship or family reason. He urged them to vote for the man that was best fitted for the position. He also pointed out that very few men in public office were particularly fitted for the office that they held. This situation could be much better if people would exercise a little judgement, he said.

The Roxboro club will meet in Oxford next Tuesday night with the Oxford club. Prior to the meeting a golf match will be held between the two clubs.

LIGHTNING SET FIRE TO WOOD SHED WED.

Wind Also Blew Down Tree In Front Yard Of R. D. Bumpass; Fire Easily Put Out In Few Minutes

R. D. Bumpass, a resident of North Roxboro, stated that he caught both ends of the storm yesterday. During the afternoon lightning struck his wood shed and set fire to it. His mother happened to see the fire through the open door of the shed and with a little help was able to extinguish it.

Later in the night wind blew down a large cherry tree in the front yard.

Mr. Bumpass was of the opinion that had the lightning struck at night he would have lost his wood shed and also his home.
