Attorney General McMullan Rules Agents Have No Authority To Enforce Prohibition Laws In Dry Areas Following Moore Request

Raleigh, May 18 — Undercover men employed by the state liquor commission have no authority to enforce prohibition laws in North Carolina's 73 dry counties, Attorney General Harry McMullan ruled today.

Cutlar Moore, liquor commission chairman, requested the ruling after being informed by the U. S. treasury department that thousands of cases of whiskey were being shipped monthly into dry counties.

Salaries Paid By Wet Counties

The attorney general pointed out that the salaries of the undercover men were paid from profits of liquor sold in the state's 27 wet counties and held that the men must confine their activities to those 27 counties.

"It is my opinion that your board does not have any jurisdiction or authority in dry counties to engage in enforcing the violations of the prohibition laws in such counties," McMullan vote.

"I am discussing only the question of the authority of your board to engage and employ police officers to enforce violations of laws against the sale of intoxicating liquors in dry counties which have voted in favor of county stores. I am not discussing other features of the act which have no reference to the police powers of your board."

McMullan said that the local option liquor law, passed in 1937, did not directly authorize the appointment by the liquor commission of undercover men. He added, however, that the authorization might be inferred, since the commission was instructed "to see that all the laws relating to the sale and control of alcohol beverages are observed and performed."

Olympe Bradna Scores Real Hit In Starring Role

"Stolen Heaven" To Be At Dolly Madison Theatre Today and Tomorrow

A story containing all the charm and drama of another "Seventh Heaven," will have its premiere tonight at the Palace Theatre in "Stolen Heaven," Paramount's new musical drama co-starring Olympe Bradna and Gene Raymond.

Olympe, a vivacious and charming French lass who deserves all the praise now being showered upon her, is seen as a lovable jewel thief, while Gene Raymond portrays her partner in crime and romance. Prominent in the supporting cast are Lewis Stone, Glenda Farrell and Porter Hall.

The story deals with a pair of young lovers, played by Olympe and Raymond, who try to live down their dangerous past in a forest hideaway with a great musician whom the world has long forgot. This man, played by Stone, has so strong an influence on them that they give up their plans to escape the country and devote themselves to preparing for the old man's "comeback."

On the eve of the festival, however, their past catches up with them in the form of Miss Farrell and Hall, their former confederates who arrive at the hideaway and plead with them to flee. All their normal instinct for self-preservation tells them to flee with their ex-confederates, but their suddenly realized devotion to Stone makes them stay and "face the music."
