THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1938

Tobacco growers in Florida and parts of Georgia are already curing tobacco. All of this means that it will not be so long before curing starts in this section. We are being led to believe that tobacco here is looking better than in other sections. Georgia reports that the rain was too late and eastern Carolina had too much rain. Perhaps the season will be just right in the Piedmont section.

Exports of tobacco to foreign countries are up. Everything points to a greater demand for good tobacco and more of it than in recent years. The tobacco situation looks very encouraging.

Smedley D. Butler, retired major general of the U. S. Marines, told the N. C. department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, "If it is necessary for your boy to be shot let it be on American soil."

"Tell Europe and Asia, you fellows have all the wars you want, but God help you if you put your foot on American soil," the general said.

General Butler also said that he was going to see to it that the members of Congress who are majors in the army go to the next war if there should be one. He seems determined that the "armchair officers" do their bit as well as the privates.

It looks like Mr. Butler has the right idea about war and many people that we know would agree with him. If other nations are anxious to fight there is nothing that we can do about it, but we can stay at home.

On June 18th. the people of this country will remember Dad. That day has been designated as Father's Day and Dad is supposed to get an even break Sunday.

Father's Day is not quite as popular as Mother's Day. It has not been operating as long. However, history recalls that this day was first suggested in 1909. In 1920 the Chicago Lion's Club really started things humming and ever since that date "Pop" has had a rather nice day on the third Sunday in June.

Remember your father this Sunday, a message of some kind if you are away from home or a gift of some kind if dad is around. Do something nice for him and you can bet that he will appreciate in a whole lot.

Summer schools over the entire state are reporting larger enrollments than ever before. This means that the teachers are going back to school. It must mean something else too. Many people who did not teach for the past six or seven years have decided that they are going to try to teach again and therefore they find it necessary to go back to school and brush up a bit. Then there's a matter of certificate and many of these need renewing. In plain words it looks like people are hunting jobs and school teaching is a fair job even tho it does last only eight or nine months in the year.

People certainly do like to listen to sensational courtroom trials. This week was the week for the trial of the Cothrans of Rougemont who had been in jail since the body of Lee Laws was found in a pond several weeks ago.

You could hardly get in the courtroom on Tuesday. People were standing up on the benches and the aisles were crowded on both sides of the room.

It was impossible for over one third of the people to hear what was being said, but they were anxious to try anyway.

A little study in human nature would reveal why so many people wanted to be present and hear what was said, but even then we wonder why they were all so very anxious. The writer tried to get a good seat and failed. I wonder why I wanted to hear it.

U. N. C. Enters 1,586
In Summer School

Registration Exceeds Expectations — Instruction Begins This Morning

Chapel Hill, June 13 — A total of 1,586 students were enrolled today for the first term of the university summer session at Chapel Hill, it was announced tonight by Administrative Dean R. B. House.

Although a substantial increase over last year was predicted, today's registration exceeded expectations. The total enrollment for the first term last year was 1,217.

Registration will continue through Friday after which enrollment for credit will not be permitted.

Instruction in all departments will begin tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

From early this morning until late this afternoon youngsters of high school age, teachers young and older, and high school principals and teachers returning for graduate work filled the campus, administrative offices and Bynum gymnasium where registration took place.

Approximately 150 high school students are registered for special courses in music and dramatic art being offered during the first term.

A number of activities and social events have been planned.

A welcoming reception will be given in Graham Memorial Thursday night at 8 o'clock and at 9 o'clock a repeat performance of "La Tour de Neale," French melo-
