STATE WILL GET QUOTA INCREASE OFFICIALS SAY

AAA To Boost Flue-Cured Tobacco Allotments For This And Other States.

Washington, Aug. 17 — Farm Administration officials announced today that flue-cured tobacco marketing quotas would be increased for Virginia and North Carolina as well as for Georgia. Although the increase had not been worked out for each of the three states, officials said the total would be "several million pounds."

They said preliminary adjustments already had been made in Georgia, where the crop started moving to market in July.

Final adjusted quotas were expected to be available for all the flue-cured tobacco-producing states within a few days, it was said.

Secretary Wallace recently ordered the adjustment in the Georgia quota because individual allotments for small farms absorbed too large a portion of the state quota, thus causing some inequities in allotments to larger farms.

The 1938 farm law, under which the quota system was invoked, established a minimum for small farms equal to at least to average production in the three preceding years.

AAA officials said this provision caused inequitable allotments to some of the larger farms in Virginia and North Carolina as well as in Georgia.

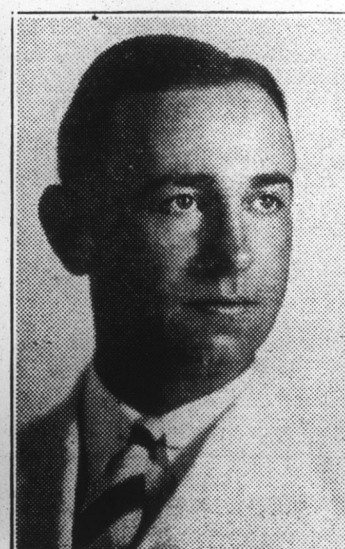

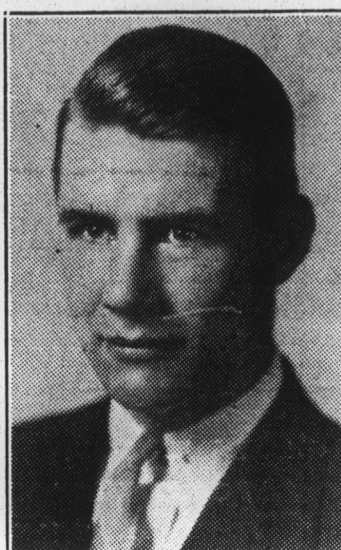

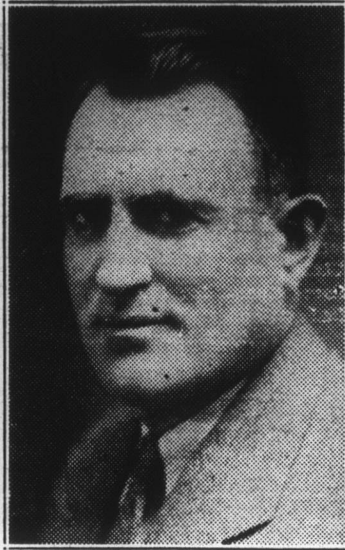

Two States Excepted.

They explained this trouble had not been encountered in South Carolina and Florida, the other two flue-cured producing states, and no adjustments were contemplated in the quotas for those two states.

Officials said South Carolina and Florida already had received additional poundage allotments over what would have been their normal quotas because of a provision in the farm act saying

Weed Crop Month Ahead Of Season

Fifty Year Old Deed Filed Today

Old Document Conveys One Acre Of Land For $3.

An old deed drawn up 50 years ago was just brought in to be recorded today, R. A. Bullock, assistant clerk of court said this morning.

The deed was drawn up on December 19, 1888 and conveyed one acre of land from Lutishia Davis to Louisa Davis, both negroes, for the sum of $3.00.

Filing the deed today was Hayward Davis, the son of Louisa Davis.

The acre of land in question is in Woodsdale township while the old document, written in old-style longhand, was witnessed by Henry Graves Clayton and Aaron C. Long, both deceased.

Farmers Of County Practically Through Priming; Many Have Been Stripping.

Tobacco growers of this county have about finished priming their crop and only a very small per cent of the 1938 crop is now in the fields. Many will finish curing their entire crop this week. A little will be left for next week, but with very few exceptions the entire crop will be cured by Saturday, August 27.

Growers in this county are about one month ahead of previous years. Even the old timers do not recall an earlier crop.

In spite of the many hardships that the 1938 crop had to undergo it is generally thought that this county has produced a good crop of tobacco. There is not so much extra good tobacco in the county; there is a large amount of good.

Many farmers are busy stripping and reports prove that a few are hauling a small load or so to distant markets.

Warehousemen report that they expect a big opening on September 27. All houses are likely to be filled and thousands of growers will be here to sell or to observe opening day prices.

Crowell To Write History Of Town From Early Period

From Days Of Moccasin Gap To Present Roxboro To Be Included In Survey.

H. L. Crowell, prominent citizen of this city, has been employed to write the history of Roxboro. This is a W. P. A. project and comes under the head of writer's project. Mr. Crowell expects to start his history back in ancient days when Roxboro was only a crossroad.

The history will be sent to the Raleigh office first and from there to Washington, D. C.

Mr. Crowell has already written several articles concerning historic spots in this county and these have been sent in. Whether any of the articles will ever be published is not yet known.

In writing the history of Roxboro the story will necessarily include quite a bit of county history and should be interesting to all people in this county.

Bushy Fork Gets One Extra Teacher

State Commission Allots Eighth Grade Teacher For County School.

The state school commission has notified local school authorities that a high school teacher for the eighth grade has been allotted Bushy Fork for the coming year, County Superintendent R. B. Griffin said yesterday.

This additional teacher, Mr. Griffin said, will give Bushy Fork a total of nine teachers, eight of them being for the elementary grades and one for high school.

Previous to this year, he said, a majority of the eighth grade students have gone to Roxboro with the remainder enrolling at Hurdle Mills.

Squirrel Season Opens September 1

County Game Warden Says Season Will Last For One Month Only.

R. G. Reynolds, county game protector, announced early this week that the regular squirrel season will open September 1 and will continue for one month closing September 30. Licenses will be on sale at the usual places, he said.

The game warden said that all closed spawning areas in the Eastern part of the state will be open for fishing also on September 1. This news, it is believed, will be on interest to many fishermen in this vicinity who may be planning a fishing trip to the coast in the near future.
