

Fight For Democratic Party Control Growing In Congress

Begins Second Month Of Session With Lines Sharper Than Ever Before.

Washington — Congress has begun the second month of the session amid indications that Democratic factionalism is developing rapidly into a fight for party control.

Some politicians predicted events of the next few weeks would sharpen the lines of this struggle, with President Roosevelt carrying on his battle for new deal "liberalism", Vice President Garner working quietly as chieftain of "conservative" forces, and both sides thinking of the presidential nomination in 1940 as the prize to be captured.

There were some signs that the Democratic split had placed the balance of power in both senate and house in the hands of the "conservatives," a situation made possible chiefly by Republican in the November elections.

Republican members, keenly aware of their own possibilities in 1940, have become more active than in any other congress of the Roosevelt administration, but it is only through the support of revolting Democrats that they may upset President Roosevelt's proposals on specific issues.

The twin issues of foreign policy and national defense are overshadowing all other questions before congress, but the nature and extent of the Democratic split may be reflected more quickly in congressional action on other questions.

Two nominations made by the president already have occasioned bitter protests by some senators. One administration leader has predicted that at least one of the nominations would be turned down by the senate.

That is Mr. Roosevelt's selection of Judge Floyd H. Robert's of Bristol to be a federal district judge in Virginia. The appointment has been opposed vigorously by Virginia Senators Glass and Byrd, both anti-administration Democrats, and the judiciary committee voted overwhelmingly this week against confirmation.

New FSA State Administrator Assumes Duties

George S. Mitchell, newly appointed Assistant Administrator of the Farm Security Administration, left Raleigh Sunday for Washington, D. C., where he assumed his new duties Monday morning. For the past two and one-half years he has been Regional Director of the same agency with headquarters in Raleigh, N. C. Mrs. Mitchell and their two small daughters accompanied him.

H. H. Gordon who has been named to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Mitchell's promotion assumed his new duties as Regional Director Monday morning. Mr. Gordon, a native of Guilford county, North Carolina, and a former State Director of Virginia, has been Assistant Director of the Rural Rehabilitation Division of the Farm Security Administration, in Washington for the past year. He is an alumnus of North Carolina State College and served for a number of years as Agricultural Engineer at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, taking charge of the rural rehabilitation program in Virginia in '34. After leaving State College he farmed for himself for four years. He has also held positions with the Agricultural Extension Service in Virginia and with the Portland Cement Company.

Region IV covers North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia. The program is aiding some 50,000 low-income farm families in the five states with small loans coupled with regular advice to the families in meeting problems in farm and home management; and in addition administrators work in Farm Debt Adjustment, loans to tenant farmers to buy and improve family-sized farms, tenure improvement, and rural health aid.

Fourteenth Annual Welfare Meet For Negroes This Week

Negro social workers, health, recreational and educational officials from all over North Carolina will meet at St. Augustine's College in Raleigh, February 9 and 10 for their fourteenth annual Public Welfare Institute, sponsored by the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, and will discuss this year the theme of "Negro Youth and Juvenile Delinquency", with State and national figures prominent in the discussions.

Dr. Forrester B. Washington, director of the Atlanta School of Social Work will be the feature speaker of a dinner meeting at the Arcade Hotel on the night of February 9.

William R. Johnson, consultant in charge of the unit of work among Negroes with the State welfare board, this week announced topics of discussions to include relationship of the social agency, school, family, church, and leisure time with juvenile delinquency.

Appearing on the programs of discussion will be Edwin Gill, commissioner of paroles; Mrs. W. T. Bost, State Welfare commissioner; W. C. Ezell, director of the division of institutions and corrections, and Nathan H. Yelton, director of the division of public assistance, of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare; J. A. Lang, NYA administrator; Mrs. Isabelle Carter, UNC associate professor of sociology; M. B. Prescott, N. C. Eastern district Federal Probation officer; Dr. Walter J. Hughes, of the State health department; Rev. Clark Fisher, of Durham, and other State and national leaders in educational, health, and welfare work.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

A generally favorable atmosphere was reflected in all lines of business following the Senate's adoption of the House's $150,000,000 slash in the President's relief program. In four years the Administration has poured $10,000,000,000 into relief, and the feeling persists in industry that the assertion of independence on the part of Congress will gradually reduce this waste drain on the Treasury. . . . A new monthly bulletin of the Treasury Department provides bankers and statisticians with data regarding money movements that has previously been available only to Federal authorities. It is especially valuable in showing the flow of money internationally. . . . To ease condition in the cotton market the Government plans the release of 4,000,000 bales, now headed on loans. . . . Finance Minister Reynaud, in reporting better fiscal conditions in France declared that the nation has "gold enough for 8,000 airplanes"

GOING PLACES

American farms are now being electrified at the rate of 200,000 a year, a far more rapid acceleration than was recorded in all the years prior to the depression. Nearly a million and a half farm homes are now using electricity.
