

Probable European Power Lineup

Map shows current states of European powers forced by the German aggression. Although Great Britain and France alone of the "allies" are permanently aligned against the Rome-Berlin axis, democracies have tentative solidarity agreements with Poland, Rumania and Greece, the latter a direct result of Mussolini's Albanian coup. Turkey and Soviet Russia, noncommittal at present, are also considered potential members of the "stop Hitler" group. Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria and the Baltic nations have been neutralized by Germany and Italy, who count on Spain as an ally in any future European war.

rence, and the Person circuit. A picnic spread was also at the lunch hour. The next meeting of the group will be at the Hillsboro Methodist church through an invitation by Rev. J. V. Early.

HITLER TO ANSWER ROOSEVELT

Berlin, Germany—The Reichstag has been called to meet April 28th, to hear Chancellor Hitler's answer to President Roosevelt's plea to Germany and Italy to pledge themselves to 10 years' moratorium on war. If German newspaper comment is any criterion, the President's suggestion will be turned down flat. It has been termed by the press as "arrogant, hypocritical, theatrical, infamous and grotesque".

Washington, D. C.—Word from South and Central America republics indicates widespread acclaim for President Roosevelt's plea for at least 10 years of world peace. Congressional comment was generally favorable to the plan, with little hope, however, for its acceptance by the totalitarian countries. Great Britain, France and Russia indicated a willingness to share in the President's desire for worldwide disarmament.

NO MINE SETTLEMENT YET

New York City—With a coal supply enough to last the city's subways only one more week, a deadlock still exists between the bituminous mine operators and John L. Lewis' C. I. O. United Mine Workers of America. President Roosevelt has indicated that he will not intercede until other possible solutions are exhausted, and fearing a prolonged strike large users of coal are arranging to import sufficient for immediate needs.

Corrigan's Plane Formerly Sunshine

Once Douglas Corrigan's famous jalopy plane was named "Sunshine" but now it is designated only by the license number—NX9243.

The slender flyer uses the plane in "The Flying Irishman," screen story of his career and "wrong way" flight to Ireland.

"I painted the name 'Sunshine' on the ship in 1927," he said, "and in all my flights that year back and forth across the country I ran into bad weather, head winds and rain. So before I set out for New York in July, 1938, I took off the name. And I've never had bad weather since."

"But," he added, "though the name is off the ship, I still call her 'Sunshine' to myself."

Hot Air Gets Used For Stormy Scenes

Hot air is one of Hollywood's most prevalent commodities; one finds it in great quantities without the asking. But when Paul Widlicska, special effect man for Samuel Goldwyn, set about generating two entire sound stages full of it, some comment was forthcoming.

It was no idle prank of Widlicska's, but a very necessary adjunct to production of Goldwyn's picturization of Emily Bronte's "Wuthering Heights," now showing at the Palace Theatre through United Artists release.

Closeup scenes were being shot in which Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier stand on a rocky pinnacle, buffeted and whipped by the ever-present Yorkshire wind.

Widlicska trundled out his wind machines and filled stages 1 and 2 with hot air to keep the stars warm.

REFLECTIONS

By R. M. SPENCER

SCHOOL TEACHERS

Sometimes the sounding board of time sends back an echo; mischievous youth becomes successful adult. The name sounds familiar. It should, it is the name of a youngster who was the pride and worry of his teachers. His head was a tousled mass of uncombed hair, his face was covered with freckles and among them were two sparkling eyes. His body bubbled with energy like steam within the boiler of a locomotive—ready to exert itself instantly on any prank, game or work. How to guide this pent up energy into constructive channels was the question confronting his teachers.

Our school teachers do more than instruct their pupils in the three R's. These men and women are examples of cheerful optimism; every child in their care is a potential leader and they strive to bring out his latent talents. Infinite patience and the wisdom of a Solomon are necessary to find a correct solution for his problems but sympathetic understanding is a virtue almost universal in teachers.

Children yesterday, leaders today! They should give credit to those kind, optimistic and sympathetic School Teachers of their childhood for their crown of success.

Soviet Pavilion's statue tallest to enter this country since the Statue of Liberty. Made of stainless steel and standing 8 stories high atop a 170 foot pylon, this figure of a Soviet worker towers above the foreign pavilions at the World's Fair.

Sarong to Scanties—Hollywood—Lovely Dorothy Lamour finds herself in a predicament. Determined to "un-type" herself as a sarong-draped South Sea lorette, in her latest film she plays the role of a slave-girl with a costume no less abbreviated than the hated sarong.

14 Ton Typewriter—Fair Exhibit—1728 times larger than a Standard machine, this Underwood Elliott Fisher exhibit at the New York World's Fair, will entertain daily by typing, in 3 inch letters, latest news flashes. Operated by remote control from a Master Underwood Typewriter, every mechanical action will be visible.
