

Cotton For Health; Keep The Family Cool In Summer

Cotton is the ideal fabric to keep the entire family cool, clean, and comfortable this summer. And cottons today are such different fabrics than they were ten years ago. Various mechanical processes have been performed so that the consumer no longer needs to accept the hazards of shrinkage in cotton clothes. Repeated laundering has no effect on the size of the garments made of these new non-shrinkable cottons.

Then there is a chemical treatment for cottons that not only increases the strength of the fabrics, but also makes the fabric water repellent - an important safeguard against damage from summer showers.

Cottons now can be made anti-crease, both in heavier and light-weight fabrics. Men and women alike are relieved to find that there is no need to look wrinkled a few minutes after donning their light-weight, washable cotton clothes. They insure clean, crisp, cool summer comfort in spite of the heat. And in addition ease of laundering, smart appearance, long wear, low cost - and health safeguards.

Take women's cottons first. Paris at the Spring openings pronounced cotton Fashion's No. 1 fabric. So women can enjoy cotton's fresh coolness this summer, and be in the highest of style while doing it! Lawns, organdies, eyelet-embroidered piques, cotton laces, all have Fashion's approval, and are as cool as the proverbial cucumber. They wash easily - and well - and wear and wear.

Nor do the ladies have the corner on cotton. It has taken a more and more important role in men's summer wardrobes, according to C. K. Everett of The Cotton-Textile Institute. The past winter cruise and resort season saw washable cotton slacks and slacks ensembles hold the center of the stage. Men will certainly relax in the cool comfort of cotton slacks this summer as never before.

Nor are men's wear cottons confined to sports wear only. The manufacturers have produced cotton suits, with the weaves and textures of regular suitings, in conservative colors that are the coolest things for office and regular daytime wear. Men used to feel conspicuous in the old-fashioned wash suits of high visibility but the new models of conventional patterns remind the wearer alone of cotton's capacity to keep men well-dressed and cool.

And cotton is a boon to the kiddies' summer-play suits, sun suits, dress-up party clothes. They let fresh air and sunshine nourish growing bodies - make it easy to keep the children clean, because they tub so easily and quickly. Health certainly dictates dressing the children in cotton for the warm summer days to come.

Consumers desirous of stocking up on summer cotton clothing for the entire family will find unusual assortments being featured by stores everywhere throughout the country on the occasion of National Cotton Week, May 22-27. The weather eye peeled - the thrifty hot-weather eye, will be focused on that event.

McNutt was on the high seas tonight enroute from Manila to China, where he will remain for several weeks before coming here to report to Mr. Roosevelt on conditions in the Far East.

After reporting to the White House and taking an accrued leave of absence, the handsome Hoosier will leave the Federal payroll, probably late in August, and actively prosecute this campaign for the Presidency.

Most frequently mentioned for McNutt's job is Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre, who is leading the current administration fight for legislation to ease the economic shock incident to granting of Philippines independence in 1946.

Others are Attorney General Frank Murphy, who was McNutt's predecessor in Manila; Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Maj. Gen. Malin Craig, retiring chief of staff of the Army, and Weldon Jones of Texas, a close friend of Vice-President John N. Garner. Jones is now acting high commissioner, and has for years been associated with Philippine affairs.

Congressional circles hear that Sayre, former professor, who married the daughter of Woodrow Wilson, has been promised the commissionership if the island legislative program goes through. He is being urged by friends and high Philippine officials who are anxious to have in Manila a nationally-recognized figure.

Those advocating Murphy's candidacy say that he has an "active" interest in the post and might accept it after he completes his "clean-up" in the Justice Department. He has arranged to visit Manila next fall to participate in the fourth anniversary celebration of the Philippines Commonwealth. He was Governor-General when the Commonwealth was inaugurated.

Morgenthau is said to be potentially available, chiefly because the islands have been designated as havens for 30,000 Jewish refugees who are to be resettled there during the next few years.

There is some doubt, however, that he would leave the Treasury until the administration's tangled fiscal figure has been carefully recharged.

Friends of Craig are campaigning for him as a counterpart to the appointment of retiring Admiral William D. Leahy as Governor of Porto Rico, Craig is an astute military strategist and would fit in nicely, they say, into the Commonwealth defense program.

The commissionership, in addition to the salary which is the highest in the Federal government aside from the President's, carries two luxurious residences, travel and entertainment allowances and the prestige of being the highest ranking American post in the Far East.

McNutt expects to land in San Francisco on July 1. His presidential headquarters already have been opened in Indianapolis and last year in Washington his followers gave a $5,000 "pre-view" of the candidate.

Raft Reenacts Scene From Life In Drama

The opening scene in "The Lady's From Kentucky," George Raft's new picture with Ellen Drew, which comes today to the Palace Theatre, represents a personal experience in the life of the popular screen actor.

As a young man in Hell's Kitchen, New York, Raft once donated blood for a transfusion performed upon a friend, Jimmy Flatley, who had been seriously hurt in a boat crash on the East River.

In the first scene of the picture, he lies on a hospital gurney, supposedly selling blood for a patient he had never seen before, in order to get money to bet on a horse race.

And on the set, watching was Flatley, who works as an extra in the picture.
