

Young Man In Hospital; Another Dies In Accident

Wendell Whitfield, young white man, remains in a serious condition at Community hospital here, where he was taken Saturday afternoon following a motorcycle accident on the Red House church road, near Semora, in which his companion, James Broome Horton, 25, who was operating the machine, was instantly killed.

Hospital attaches said that Whitfield, who was riding tandem fashion with Horton, suffered a broken leg, a fractured arm and a fractured skull.

Witnesses to the accident report that Horton, making about 60 miles an hour, lost control of his machine, which went into a ditch at the side of the road and then crashed into a telephone pole.

Funeral services for Horton, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Horton, of this city, were conducted Monday afternoon at 2:30 at the Roxboro Primitive Baptist church, with Elder Lex J. Chandler in charge. Interment took place in Burchwood cemetery. The parents are the only survivors.

Is Mrs. Thin Man Always Herself? Well, Not Really

Whenever Myrna Loy hears someone assert that the reason for her success on the screen is that she always plays herself, she smiles and wonders.

She thinks mostly of her role as Nora Charles, the fun-loving wife of Detective Nick Charles in "Another Thin Man," which opens today at the Palace theatre. It was this role that started her fame as "the perfect wife." She's played it three times.

"Nora Charles is a typical modern wife, somewhat exaggerated to get over the type," she smiles. "But there are lots of things Nora does that I would never dream of doing at home and I like to think of myself as at least an average wife."

"Nora amuses me because she is the sort of character it is easy to become in this day and age. Speed is the keynote of our existence and modern women, like men, try to meet its demands. We all seem to fear 'he who hesitates is lost'.

"Nora isn't calm or composed an instant. She hustles and bustles, insists on snooping where there is activity, and is apparently afraid something is going to happen that she will miss.

"But in real life, I am an established home-body. I rarely ever run out to night clubs and my garden is much more interesting to me than watching a horse race."

The Scotch Are Generous, Film Research Proves

Experts conducting research for "Rulers of the Sea," new Frank Lloyd picture telling of the triumph of steam over sail which opens today at the Dolly Madison theatre with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Margaret Lockwood and Will Fyffe, great Scottish character actor, in co-starring roles, proved that the Scotch are definitely a generous people.

The proof lay in a set reproducing a Scottish public inn of the 1830's which John Goodman, unit art director, declared to be the most difficult set to re-create authentically for the picture.

"There were no Scottish inns of consequence until about 1800," he explained. English inns dated back to medieval times. But in Scotland, while they may have been watchful of their pennies, the townfolks cared for wayfarers beneath their own roofs."

FAVORS RAGWEED

Ragweed as a cover to land that will be planted in tobacco seems to be desirable following various tests made by College and federal scientists. Tobacco grown after a natural fallow and receiving the proper fertilizers has about the same characteristics as when the crop was grown on virgin land in the early days.

Important Health Law Now Enforced

Raleigh, Jan. 3 — One of the most important public health measures ever enacted by a North Carolina Legislature became effective Monday, January 1, after which, in the language of Chapter 313 of the Public Laws of 1929, "every woman who becomes pregnant shall have a blood sample taken and submitted to a laboratory approved by the North Carolina State Board of health for performing the Wasserman test or other approved tests for syphilis," Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health officer, said today.

Summarized, the new law provides:

That any duly licensed physician shall, upon request of the woman, secure the required sample and submit it to the laboratory.

Midwives may not take such samples but shall refer their patients to a duly licensed physician.

Any pregnant woman who is not able to pay a physician to take the blood sample may have such samples secured by the county health officer or the county physician for submission to the laboratory.

In reporting births and stillbirths, physicians shall be required to state whether such serological tests have been made during pregnancy, this information to appear on the birth or still-
