FASHION PREVIEW

Smart as paint are the new checked frocks that will be worn this summer. In all kinds of material they appear to advantage aided by clever accessories. May Good Housekeeping suggests the above practical ensemble of a brown-and-white, green-and-white or black-and-white gingham dress worn with a brisk little pique jacket.

Study Club Meets With Mrs. Masten

Hostess to the Study club at her residence on Oak street Thursday afternoon was Mrs. Edgar Masten. Program for the afternoon was devoted to "Current Events" and the roll call was answered by "Interesting books I have read".

Only review was presented by Mrs. R. G. Cole, who discussed Mrs. Bernice Kelly Harris', "Purslane", a novel of North Carolina life. Mrs. Cole expressed the opinion that she enjoyed the novel as a "Tar Heel" story, although some features of the narrative could not be described as enjoyable in themselves.

Presiding officer was the new president, Mrs. T. T. Mitchell, who with Mrs. H. L. Umstead, as vice president and Mrs. Roger W. Wilkerson, Jr., as secretary-treasurer, will serve for a year. One new member, Mrs. L. H. Umstead, was welcomed to membership, and special guests were Mrs. Tom Hatchett and Mrs. H. H. Masten, mother and mother-in-law of the hostess.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Masten served a three course dinner at small tables in the living room, which was decorated with tulips and other spring flowers.

Thursday's program marked the final session of the spring season, although there will be a picnic next week and summer meetings will be held once each month.

Massey's Portrayal Of Lincoln Hailed

Sincerely and accurately portraying Lincoln as the man he actually was, Robert E. Sherwood's Pulitzer Prize Play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois", reaches the screen Monday and Tuesday at the Palace theatre, presenting Raymond Massey in the title role he created in the Broadway hit.

Hailed in extravagant terms as the finest characterization of the Great Emancipator, Massey's delineation on the screen, enhanced as it is by the wider sweep of the camera, is said to be an inspiring, moving portrait of the greatest and most lovable of our rational heroes.

A notable cast of sixty players is headed by Gene Lockhart, Ruth Gordon, Mary Howard, Dorothy Tree, Harvey Stephens, Watson Minor and Alan Baxter in featured roles. Max Gordon produced the picture for RKO Radio, and John Cromwell directed it.
