

Cood Beef May Be Produced On Southern Grass

Raleigh, May 23 — It doesn't require Iowa corn to produce palatable and nutritious beef, says Earl H. Hostetler, professor of animal husbandry at N. C. State college. "Our southern grass will do just as good a job, if we use good sires in breeding our cattle," he declares.

"Recent research has shown that good beef can be produced from Southern pastures, roughages and cottonseed meal," the animal husbandman says. "With the long growing season and greater stress on improved pastures, the finishing of beef cattle will prove a profitable practice in the Southern States. Added to profit from the sale of beef is the value of plant food restored to the pasture land without labor in handling manure."

Prof. Hostetler says that experiments by the North Carolina, and other experiment stations, have shown in certain cases that larger returns are possible from beef cattle that are fed cottonseed cake, or a mixture of cottonseed meal and grain, in addition to pasture. Also, by this method the quality of beef is improved and more rapid gains are made, higher prices are secured, and less grain is used than for cattle that are fed to the same degree of finish in a dry lot.

"Cotton belt feeders have proved that cottonseed meal is not only an economical and efficient source of protein, but, in addition, has a productive and fattening value that is important in feeding on grass," the State college man declared.

When farm grains are available, many feeders use a mixture of one part of cottonseed meal and four to six parts of ground grain for cattle on grass. Pasture conditions and the relative cost of grain determines the proportion of meal and grain fed, as well as the amount of mixture fed to cattle.

Markers Limited In Function In Primaries Now

Raleigh, May 23—The 1939 General Assembly made a very drastic change in the use of markers in primaries.

The only voters who may be assisted in the marking of their ballots are those who cannot read and those who by reason of physical handicap, such as blindness, paralysis or other disabling defect, are unable to mark their ballot.

In an official opinion, the Attorney General ruled that only those illiterates registered under the Grandfather Clause of the Constitution were entitled to assistance by reason of their inability to read.

When a voter is entitled to assistance in the marking of the ballot, he must obtain the assistance from a near relative, (husband and wife; parent and child; brother and sister; or grandparent and grandchildren) but if no such near relative is present, he may then ask any other voter of the precinct who has not assisted any other voter, to give him the assistance. If, however, there is present no near relative, or other voter who has not marked another ballot, the voter may but only then, call upon the registrar or a judge of elections for assistance.

The registrar is required to keep a record of all voters who receive assistance and the names of the persons giving assistance.

Where Raiders Downed Nazi Planes

Object of at least 20 air raid bombings during the first three weeks of war was the city of Stavanger, Norway. It was here that British air squadrons wrecked numerous Nazi fighting planes and killed many members of the German aircraft personnel in raids on the German-held airport.

It is not only unlawful for any person to give assistance, but also unlawful for any person to receive or permit assistance except under the terms of the Act.

The Act does not prevent members of the same family (husband and wife; parent and child; brother and sister; grandparent and grandchild) from assisting one another, and no record is required of such.

ONE-FIFTH

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that one-fifth of all factory workers reemployed since 1932 have gone back to work because of increased purchases of farm families.

L'Guardia Says Italians Soon Will Enter War

Charlotte, May 21 — Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, speaking here yesterday at the 165th anniversary of the signing of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, predicted that Italy would soon enter the war on the side of Germany.

"The Italian people don't want to fight for Germany," he said. "The hope is trying to keep Italy from entering the war, too. But Mussolini has the army and Mussolini, it appears, is determined to see that Italy gets into the war on Hitler's side. I believe that Italy will soon be in. The man who has the army usually has his way." The "Little Flower" made it plain that he was not too confident that the allies would win. The sensible thing for the United States to do, he said, is to get ready.

Electricity Put To Work On Farm

Raleigh, May 23 — Rural electrification has brought light and modern conveniences to thousands of North Carolina farm homes within the past few years.

"Now," says D. E. Jones, rural electrification specialist of N. C. State college, "farmers are learning how electricity can be put to work to lighten burdens and economically operate heating and refrigeration units on the farm."

He named the operation of brooders for chicks, dairy equipment, and feed grinders, and the heating of plant beds as ways that farmers are using their new-found source of power and heat.

Electric brooders are becoming popular, and among those who have expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied with this modern equipment are J. A. Rowland of Stanley County, John Worman of Cleveland County, and Mrs. J. C. Barber of Rowan County. Mr. Rowland figured his cost at slightly more than one cent per chick despite the severe winter just past.

P. A. Irvin, a large retail milk producer of Mecklenburg County told Specialist Jones that his total electric bill for the many jobs performed in his dairy is no more than was his cost for ice alone before he installed electrical equipment.

Ralph Scott of Alamance County, and Roy and Francis Siegman of Catawba County are enthused over their new feed grinding mills operated by electric motors. Mr. Scott says: "I am convinced that the feed grinding problem on my farm is solved through use of this mill. I can grind nearly 60 bushels of ear corn an hour and use only five Kilowatt Hours of electricity."

Jones also reports that Ira and High Bailey in Rowan County are using electricity to pump water for the irrigation of their truck crops, and to heat plant beds to start leaauce, pepper and tomato plants. "A few farmers are also using electrically-heated sweet potato plant beds," Jones stated.

Speed Cause Of Many Accidents

Raleigh, May 23—In the spring a young man's fancy turns to something more serious than love, according to Ronald Hocutt, Director of the Highway Safety Division. And that "something", Hocutt says, is stepping on the gas—driving at an excessive rate of speed.

Accident records show that nine persons were killed on North Carolina highways last month in cars that overturned, and eight of these nine, all but one of whom were driving, were young men between the ages of 18 and 25.

"Practically every one of these fatal accidents was due to just one thing—excessive speed," the safety director said. "Modern motor cars don't overturn easily, and as a general thing the driver who overturns a car has been guilty of reckless driving and speeding. Young men, as last month's accident record indicates, are the most flagrant offenders on these counts."

Pointing out that in some instances cars have overturned five or six times without killing or seriously injuring anyone, Hocutt said that it is possible and frequently happens that a person is killed in a car that has turned over only once, and that "any person whose car turns a flip without killing or at least seriously injuring him is a mightily lucky individual."

"Yet," he added, "there are a good many young men in this state who think their experience isn't complete until they have turned over at least one car."

"These reckless, speed-crazy young drivers," Hocutt concluded, "are among the worst menaces on our highways today. And we sincerely hope that the young drivers' grasp the Highway Safety Division proposals to organize Highway Safety Clubs which will serve to impress young drivers with the dangers of speeding and reckless driving."

Trained Squirrel Has Screen Role

Bing Crosby, who has sponsored the debut of many a present-day star, is serving in like capacity for the first screen appearance of a trained squirrel, first arboreal rodent to scamper to the top of the cinema firmament.

Named Crack, the squirrel has an important role with Bing and Gloria Jean, co-stars of Universal's "If I Had My Way", which comes today and tomorrow to the Dolly Madison theatre. The squirrel is the property of Curly Twyfort, Hollywood "animal man" who specializes in training odd birds, beasts and reptiles for movie purposes. Twyfort raised Crack from a baby, and spent many hours teaching him tricks. Crack's main value in the movies is his ability to do what he's told and to do it at the right time.

Central Service Corporation

Roxboro, N. C.

To The Home Folks Of Person County:

It has been necessary for me to spend a lot of time in other parts of North Carolina recently, and for this reason I have not had the opportunity to ask many of you to support me for Lieutenant Governor. I deeply appreciate the local interest in my behalf, and I have made an honest and dignified campaign. I am grateful for the confidence you have shown in the past and I respectfully hope you will vote for me on May 25.

Faithfully yours,

R. L. Harris
