Wheat Can Grow; Make Preparations

While it may be true that wheat is not considered a money-making crop in this section, it is a splendid crop on the farms of Person county to meet the plantation needs of the families, livestock and poultry. Some people have made the statement that they do not have time to grow wheat in a tobacco county, yet there are many farmers who have demonstrated the fact that they can find time to sow wheat, harvest it and carry it to mill. Some farmers report that on certain types of land—particularly sandy soil—wheat does not do well, does not even pay for the seed and fertilizer—but we have farmers on sandy farms who have demonstrated for years and years that they can make 30 bu. per acre on applying sandy loam and kindred soil.

Under tobacco control for the next three years, more and more farmers will turn their attention to growing their own bread. For best results the land should be turned under in July. If we give wheat a chance by sowing it on good land, fertilizing it at time of planting, and top-dressing it in the spring, there is no reason why we should not produce 15 bushels of wheat per acre and up. Wheat does better on a firm seed-bed. Therefore, if wheat is to follow corn or tobacco in a rotation, discing the land is sufficient preparation. Use at least

"River's End" Vivid Story of Man-Hunt At Dolly Madison

No sooner had he been straightened out on his dual role in "River's End," coming to the Dolly Madison Monday, in which he plays both a "Mountie" and a fugitive from justice, Dennis Morgan discovered that he would have to brush up on his North West history as well as to keep confusion at a minimum. "For instance," said the Warner Bros. star, "did you know that in 1873 the force was known as the North West Mounted?" "Then," he continued, reading from notes, "it became the Royal North West Mounted Police in 1904. That's what we're called in 'River's End' because the time is about 1908."

"Don't tell me the name was changed again," said James Stephenson who plays Morgan's superior officer in the picture.

"Right!" said Morgan. "In 1920 it became the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. In fact, the only thing that hasn't changed is the motto."

"What's that?" "Maintien le droit!" said Morgan, saluting.

OPEN FORUM

To the Editor,
The Person County Times:

Editor-in-chief, Wheeler McMillen, of the Farm Journal says: "we may or may not need to use a military defense; we shall certainly need to use an economic defense, and it must be powerfully and wisely built. The farms of the county are a basic part of military as well as economic defense."

Very wise words we all agree. In fact when it gets down to brass tacks we are all mighty dependent on the farms of this great country of ours, and the very best part of it is that our farmers always rise to the occasion.

Actual danger is not imminent at the moment from the standpoint of military invasion, but there is a physical danger ever present with us and that is the danger of malnutrition, particularly in our school children.

Very soon our schools will open for another term. All parents wish to see children do well in their school work, be happy in their contacts with other children and have healthy bodies able to resist disease germs.

Good gardens are fairly easy to grow, and for a certain amount of time and effort coupled with a fair season will produce the necessary amount of vegetables and small fruits needed by the entire family.

Surplus products may be successfully preserved for winter use with very little effort. An adequate diet is much more easily provided from the pantry shelves than it is from any source, so let me urge the canning, preserving, pickling and jelly-making sufficient for the family needs.

This is the time to work hard on the fall and winter garden—And don't say that your family doesn't eat this, that and the other thing. If prepared in various ways all foods may all of a sudden make an appeal to finicky appetites. Decide on their needs then keep trying until you get each member of your family catching everything in some form or another.

Be so busy with preventing an invasion of germs into your family circle that you haven't time to worry about them, for if an adequate food supply is provided for all members of the family there is no cause for worry, and if a complete year-around garden is kept there will be no time for worry.

Never let it be said of the farm families in Person that we spend more money for food than for any other commodity we buy. Sincerely,
