

McAfee, One Of The Boys

GEORGE MCAFEE

Reports from up the Northern way have it that our friend, George McAfee, former Duke star and brother of the present Wes, is doing a good job at the professional game. It is reported that George played so good that he made his coach, "Red" Grange, look mighty good. In only 12 attempts he has gained a total of 100 yards.

When a fellow can leave the Southern conference and go to the pros, making a record like this, it makes Southern football and coaches look very prominent.

Is Virginia Right?

Football fans in this section are wondering if the University of Virginia is right. It looks like this school has something this year and we really hope that the boys come through the season with a good record. We all remember when Virginia played real football and it was a treat to watch the team in action.

A few years ago the team slumped and it has taken several years for it to start on the upgrade.

We always pull for Carolina when she plays Virginia, but recently the game has not prove much of a contest. It has lost its color and all. There really wasn't much to excite you one way or the other.

People who live in our neighbor state say that the University is ready to meet good teams and beat them. We do hope that they have something to talk about

Red Day Stars For Locals In First Conference Tilt

Winning their third straight victory of the season, Roxboro high school Ramblers, Friday, defeated Cary high school on the Cary gridiron by the impressive score of 25 to 14. This was the Rambler's first conference game of the season.

First touchdown for the Roxboro team came in the beginning of the first quarter when "Red" Day went over after picking up four successive first downs. Lunsford, fullback, tried for the extra point on a line play, but failed.

Immediately following this another forward march got underway and soon Bert Lunsford drove through the Cary line for the locals' second marker. An extra point try was no good.

First play of the second quarter proved to be a season high light. This was when Buddy Clayton, flashy Rambler end, intercepted one of Cary's laterals and put on a fine exhibition of broken field running for 70 yards and a touchdown. This put the score at 18-0. Buddy, the punting end of the Ramblers, also took honors in this department. During the afternoon he got off several nice kicks and some of these going as far as 65 yards.

The third quarter went scoreless for both teams. In the final frame Cary, on lucky breaks slipped two markers by the locals. Extra points were also good. "Red" Day scored another six pointer for the Ramblers in the quarter and Randolph King, on an end run, picked up the extra point, and that concluded scoring for the day.

Next Friday the Ramblers will engage another conference team Hillsboro, who is supposed to be very strong. The contest will be on the local gridiron and the band will be playing.

Standouts in Friday's game were, No. 1 — Lewis "Red" Day classed as one of Roxboro high school's greatest field general and ball carrier, who played good, hard football the entire game and accounted half of the Rambler's 25 points.

No. 2 — Buddy Clayton, left end, for his quick thinking, broken field running and ability to boot the ball.

No. 3 — Fred (Dink) Woods, guard, the man who has been tearing through all of the Rambler's opponents' lines and followed suit in this encounter.

No. 4 — Lawrence "Gus" Holeman, co-captain and right end for his pass-catching ability and wonder-work on defense.

No. 5 — in the standout position goes to the remainder of the local's team, in fact everyone deserves honors for playing his position well.

In talking with Coach Wirt yesterday morning it was discovered that the Roxboro high school Ramblers has been placed in the first 20 high school football teams of the state and is the only Class B team listed. For the local team this is quite an honor.

Cotton Bowl Tilt Is Taken Over By Conference

Dallas, Texas — The Southwest conference, pipeline for the Sugar and Rose Bowls the past five years with a batch of great football teams, will stage its own New Year's Day game on Jan. 1, 1941—the Cotton Bowl classic.

The Conference that gave the Rose Bowl Southern Methodist in 1935, the Sugar Bowl Slingin' Sam Baugh and Davey O'Brien with Texas Christian in 1935 and 1938, and Jarrin' John Kimbrough and the stout Texas Aggies in 1939, formally confirmed today it would sponsor the budding Cotton Bowl game at Dallas.

The classic at first was privately promoted, then a group of Dallas business men obtained the rights. Now the group will turn the contract over to the conference.

No ironclad commitment to place the Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl game has been given by all the seven schools, said Dan D. Rogers, chairman of the Cotton Bowl Athletic association executive committee, but "an urgent invitation will be extended the champion."

It is known the Texas Aggies, acclaimed the nation's No. 1 team by the experts last Fall and bidding for another unspoiled season with virtually the same eleven, would accept a Rose Bowl invitation if it were proffered.

It has been learned that should they go through as champions of the Southwest, it would be either the Rose or Cotton Bowl for the Aggies, nothing else.

The Southwest Conference has made contacts in an effort to weld a permanent alliance between the Southwest conference and the Big Six conference, one that would put representatives of each league in the Cotton Bowl game. Some Big Six schools are known to favor the proposal.

More than half of this country's commercial potato crop is moved to market in motor trucks.

Development of the truck has benefited farmers more than any other class. They use a million of their own trucks and many more "for hire" vehicles to get their produce to market quickly and economically.

Argentina is the leading foreign buyer of trucks manufactured in the United States.

The motorists today can buy three new cars for the price he used to pay for one.

Eighty-eight percent of the new trucks produced are below two tons capacity.

Of all the motor vehicles registered 41 per cent are on farms and in towns under 2,500 population.

The death rate from automobile accidents in 1939 as compared with 1929 was 3 percent lower on the basis of number of population, 9 percent lower on the basis of number of cars in use, and 30 percent on the basis of motor vehicle mileage.

New York was the first state to license motor vehicles, beginning in 1901, when it collected $954. In 1937 it collected $52,901,000.

SELL YOUR TOBACCO IN ROXBORO. ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

This was an easy shot—one small photo bulb inside the pumpkin, a small and large one in reflectors outside, and a snapshot exposure with high speed film in the camera. Get one like it for Halloween.

HALLOWEEN is, or should be, a very special occasion for the amateur photographer. Probably none of us would like a steady, year-round diet of weird, grotesque pictures—but for occasional spice and variety, they're fine. And Halloween activities provide plenty of opportunity for such shots.

There are, in fact, two kinds of pictures—record shots, covering the Halloween party and the children's costumes; and "stunt" shots, with odd or extraordinary lightings.

The best stunt lighting for many Halloween shots is to have your photo lights low—that is, down close to the floor, so that the light shines up into the subject's face. This suggests the lighting you get from a gypsy fire, or a witch's cauldron.

Silhouette shots are also a good Halloween stunt, and taking them can be part of the Halloween party. Just stretch a white sheet over a doorway, illuminate it from behind, and pose the costumed guests in front of it with the room lights turned off. Have two large amateur photo bulbs in reflectors, about five feet back of the sheet; put the camera on a firm support, and take quick "open and shut" time exposures on high speed film.

Try some stunt lightings with the jack-o-lantern, too. For snapshots with a box camera, use a small photo bulb inside the pumpkin, and a large and small bulb in reflectors outside, as for snapshots at night. Hang the bulb inside so that it does not touch the surface of the pumpkin.

High speed film, of course, is right for all these Halloween shots. In taking the party pictures, place your photo lights in advance at strategic spots—such as the apple-bobbing tub, or the fortune-teller's tent. Then just stand by, and shoot as opportunities occur.

Keep a complete record. A good Halloween party is worth picturing in detail—and there's a lot of satisfaction in having a well-rounded picture story, to show your friends and the parents of your children's guests.

Fetchit To Be In This City On Friday

Hollywood, Broadway and Egypt join hands in furnishing talent for "SWINGAROO" which comes to Roxboro on Friday, (only) with Stepin Fetchit, famed colored movie star, headlining.

Plans to produce his own revue were made by Stepin Fetchit in Hollywood recently. Stepin came to New York to join the cast of "Three After Three," the Shubert Show starring Simone Simone, Mary Brian and Mitzi Green. After a 16-week tour in the major cities, Fetchit returned to New York to complete his plans for his revue and Stanford Zuker arranged to place "SWINGAROO" on tour.

Fetchit, whose wailing voice, lazy mannerisms and comedy capers have made him favorite with countless movie fans, will be remembered for his work opposite the late Will Rogers and for his comedy parts in collegiate musical productions.

Abdul Sender, sensational swing pianist, will also be presented in "SWINGAROO."

U. S. STRENGTHENS PACIFIC DEFENSES IN SERIES OF MOVES

Washington, Oct. — The United States studied plans yesterday for evacuating Americans from the far east after a series of moves designed to strengthen defenses in the Pacific.

Maritime commission officials revealed that they and state department officials will negotiate with representatives of the United States lines looking toward the possible use of the liner Manhattan, Washington or possibly the America, the largest passenger vessel ever built in this country, for bringing home from Asia. President John M. Franklin of the U. S. Lines and associates are here to discuss plans.
