The Time Is About Here

Saturday is the big day and the place is Chapel Hill, N. C. We admit that there is not quite as much interest in the game this year as there has been in some other years, but Duke and Carolina always have a good game and there is always plenty of excitement.

Duke is favored, even more so this week than last week since Carolina lost to Richmond. However, the Carolina loss to Richmond can mean only one thing and that is that the Tar Heels will be in even better shape for Duke than they would have been. They will probably be fighting mad and about as ready for a good victory as a team could be. The Devils are not looking down on the Heels because of last Saturday's loss, but are expecting an even better and harder battle.

With Ramblers At Sanford

Tomorrow afternoon the Roxboro Ramblers, lead by Coach George Wirtz and his co-captains, Lawrence (Gus) Holeman and Fred Woods, will venture into enemy territory to engage the Sanford high school football team on their home field in semi-final play for the Class B conference title. With them will be the Roxboro high school band, under the direction of Frederick R. Moore, and many local sports fans. On local or foreign soil this is a definite asset to the Ramblers winning cause and any support that can be given these boys and their coach is truly deserved.

During the present season the locals have made quite a showing, defeating every opponent yet coming in contact with and have piled up a large number of points in most of their wins. With the going of this season the Ramblers will lose several valuable men by graduation. Among them is that famous right end, Lawrence (Gus) Holeman, who excels in every section of his department. During the year he has won wide acclaim on his pass receiving ability and also in the fine defensive work that he has exhibited. In Gus, we think, is stored up the energies and abilities that any college coach desires. Here's hoping the right man sees him.

Many Good Games

There will be any number of good football games over the country on Thanksgiving Day, but just in case you want to see a real one and don't mind driving a little way to see it we advise you to go to see the William and Mary-Richmond contest. These two teams will be playing for the championship of Virginia and both teams really want that honor.

Richmond is riding high since she defeated Carolina and William and Mary is considered a power in Virginia football circles. The game between these two institutions should be one great affair.

However, if you don't care to drive so far you could possibly see other good games in this neck of the woods.

Whitten Is Right There

Bob Whitten, Roxboro's boy at Carolina, seems to be collecting honors for himself as a gridster with the Tar Heels and has two more years in which to advance. In Sunday's dailies his name was plastered on the sports pages and also under several action pictures snapped. Whitten, 203 pounds of speed and shiftness, played here for three years with the high school Ramblers before making up the sport at the university. He is a good boy both on and off the playing field.

Wal Moore Makes Squad At Mars Hill

Mars Hill, Nov. 13 (Special) — Wallace Moore, a former first stringer on the Roxboro High School football team is a candidate on the Mars Hill gridiron squad this season, and is doing a fine job playing reserve center. Moore is a freshman, but his accurate passing from center, and his fine line backing defense son.

marks him as first string material for next season.

Moore has held his position on the second team without challenge, and has substituted in almost every game the Lions have played this year. The games he did play in were flawless as far as his centering was concerned. He backs the line on defense and does a fine job. Once Wofford was knocking on the Hillians' goal line from the one foot stripe. They tried an end run but Moore threw them for a five yard loss. That is the kind of ball he has been playing this year. He will be a more valuable player next season.

To Play Saturday

WHITTEN - GUARD

Bob Whitten, 205-pound guard from this city, is slated to see lots of action for North Carolina in its annual classic with Duke at Chapel Hill Saturday afternoon.

A sophomore, Whitten is one of the most improved players on the squad and last week got the starting call in the Richmond game. He gave a fine all-round performance and looked considerably improved over his earlier exhibitions.

He should develop into an outstanding guard during his junior and senior years.

Ramblers To Play Game In Sanford

C., a four year school, to a scoreless tie the following Saturday. October 5 the Hillians smothered Erskine (Fresh.) beneath landslide of touchdowns in a founders day game. The final score was 41-0. Wake Off To Texas

Wake Forest, N. C. — This ball game for Wake Forest's Deacons Saturday afternoon against undefeated Texas Tech at Lubbock, Texas, is slated to be one of the toughest on the current schedule. The contest is homecoming out there.

The Tech Red Raiders have rolled over all opposition very handily this season and are so tough they've elected to play their last three tilts within a span of eleven days. Armistice Day they met Centenary. Saturday the Deacs and Thanksgiving (Nov. 21) they get St. Louis.

To date Coach Pete Cawthon has steered his boys to victories over Oklahoma A & M, Loyola, Montana, Brigham Young, Marquette and Miami. Miami fell by the score of 61-14.

The Raiders were in the Cotton Bowl in 1939 and Sun Bowl in 1939, and from the record they are rolling up now, it looks as if 1941's New Year's Day will find them roosting in another bowl. Of course, they must win their last three games.

To date Wake Forest has lost only to Duke and Clemson. They have defeated William Jewell, North Carolina, Furman, Marshall, George Washington, and N. C. State.

In all of the contests won by the Deacons this year it seemed there was but little doubt as to the outcome, except in last Saturday's N. C. State game. There an inspired Wolfpack eleven completely surprised everybody by turning on a burst of potent power, grabbed a 14 - 7 lead and held on until five minutes before the final gun when the Wakes, with their hopes fast fading, sent a sub end, Pat Geer, through to block and cover a punt for the score-tying touchdown with the help of Tony Galovich's extra point. Then two minutes later the Deacs tallied again when J. V. Pruitt tossed a 36 yard pass that hero Tony Galovich miraculously caught, though well covered by two defensive backs, and fell across the goal for the winning points.

The Deacs came through the Wolfpack set to without any serious casualties and immediately began preparations Monday for this week's encounter with the undefeated Red Raiders.
