All of the above reminds us of Coleman King who just had a few pictures made of himself. He has his friends wondering what he is going to do with them. The pictures look about as good as it was possible for them to look, considering the material, but even at that we do not know what Coleman is going to do with them. This newspaper does not want one and we know of no ladies who do. Maybe the picture taking man was just warming up.

Each year this column has something to say about Roxporo gardeners. At this time we would like to call to your attention a real cnampion in the garden line, A. S. de Vlaming. Mr. de Vlaming goes about his garden like a man who knows his business. Each weed is immediately taken care of and each seed receives very careful attention. When harvest time comes that man eats like a King. We would like to match Mr. de Vlaming against A. M. Burns, Sr., not Junior.
