VIRGINIA DARE TO RETURN HOME

Statue To Be Taken Back To Manteo After Long Years In Raleigh

RALEIGH, May 17.—Virginia Dare is going back to Manteo—some 350 years after she was born somewhere down in that section, the first English girl ever to draw her first breath in America.

She's going in stone—but not one of the several secret which have been "discovered" from Dare County half way into Georgia. This is a statue, carved in Rome in 1858 out of white Italian marble.

For a long time now the statue has stood in the office of State Auditor George Ross, and it is through his efforts, in cooperation with Brad Fearing, head of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, that it will be sent to the site of the first English colony in America, now better known as the locus for presentation of Paul Green's drama "The Lost Colony."

The marble will be transported to Manteo by the State Highway and Public Works Commission. Chairman Ben Prince has agreed that the first time a highway truck has occasion to head for the Albemarle section with a part-load he will have Miss Virginia picked up, without having to show a hitch-hiking thumb.

The statue is the sculptor's conception of how Virginia would have looked (sans clothing, accidentally) if she had lived to young womanhood. It's undraped condition has led to many joking cracks at Auditor Poe. During the renovation of the Capitol, it was moved over into the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure, and was carefully wrapped in brown parcel paper.

"That just couldn't take it," cracked Mr. Poe, relishing the chance to turn the tables on his fermentors. "he isn't the man I am."

VICHY DENIES GERMANS TO GET ARMED AID

VICHY, France, May 17.—Marshal Philippe Petain's plan for appeasing Germany includes full economic cooperation by France and her African Colonies, but does not affect French Pacific or Western Hemisphere possessions, it was understood today.

He would shape French industry and agriculture to suit the purposes of an Axis-dominated Europe, and place the French African empire at the services of the Axis powers for exploitation as a source of raw materials, foodstuffs and living space for surplus European populations. He would turn France's face to the East and her back on the Anglo-American world, despite all her sentimental, political, economic and cultural ties with North and South America. He would not, however, offer Germany any military cooperation.

JULE B. WARREN GETS SUPPORT

20 Superintendents Ask Reinstatement Of NCEA Official

RALEIGH, May 17.—The reinstatement of Jule B. Warren as secretary of the North Carolina Education Association is sought by a group of 20 public school superintendents.

Warren, author of a North Carolina history book which became the object of statewide controversy because of errors it contained, was notified recently by the N. C. E. A. that his services were no longer needed. He had served as secretary of the N. C. E. A. for nearly 19 years.

The superintendents, indignant over Warren's dismissal, passed a resolution asking that no secretary be hired before September and received a promise that they would be heard by the N. C. E. A. board of directors which voted 5-3 to discontinue Warren's contract.

President K. G. Phillips of Winston-Salem told the group that they "probably would have occurred in the board's action" if they had the same information that was before it, and said that opponents of the board's action would be heard when the board meets again.

Rules of The Road

On Dimming Lights BY KEITH SAUNDERS

Sec. 94, Motor Vehicle Laws of North Carolina:—"The head lamps of motor vehicles shall be so constructed, arranged and adjusted that they will at all times and under normal atmospheric conditions and on a level road produce a driving light sufficient to render clearly discernible a person two hundred feet ahead, but any person operating a motor vehicle upon the highways, when meeting another vehicle, shall so control the lights of the vehicle operated by him by shifting, depressing, deflecting, tilting or dimming the head light beams in such manner as shall not project a glaring or dazzling light to persons in front of such head lamp."

In other words, dim your headlights when meeting another car on the highway at night. The law requires it, courtesy suggests it, safety demands it.
