MEMORIAL THEME DISCUSSED BY REV. W. C. MARTIN

Patriotism and Sacrifice Valued By Speaker At Memorial Day Exercises. "Poppy" Sales Made.

"Commonplace as it may seem," said the Rev. W. C. Martin, of Edgar Long Memorial Methodist church, in a Memorial Day address Friday night at the American Legion hut, "sacrifice is the ultimate truth for which Memorial Day stands."

In defining Memorial Day's spirit of sacrifice, in which men of the North and the South, of the Spanish-American war and of the first world war are remembered, the Rev. Mr. Martin quoted the late English editor, Sir W. Nicholl, as saying that without sacrifice, "without shedding blood, there is nothing, no country, no civilization, no Christianity."

The speaker then mentioned the incident of two bullets, fired from opposing sides at Petersburg, Va., that meeting in mid-air formed one heart-shaped mass now placed in an historical museum. From this incident of the "heart" the speaker drew comfort, saying that American people are now as one and that because they are so united patriotism is not a feeling to be put in cold storage.

Present for the exercises were many members of Lester Blackwell Post of the American Legion and a number of other citizens. Held yesterday, under direction of Mrs. W. T. Kirby, who had quarters at the court house, was the annual "Poppy Day," with sales being made by sons and daughters of legionnaires.

Along The Way With the Editor

S. G. "Champ" Winstead pitched the first ball at the opening of the softball season last Tuesday night! It so happens that "Champ" is the Mayor of Roxboro and regards himself as quite an athlete. He may have been in days gone by, but the best thing that he can do now is to live in the past. Anyway his fast ball came up to Percy Bloxam, City Manager, and hit our City Manager on the leg. Whether Percy saw the ball or not we do not know. He positively did not come anywhere near catching it. That puts Percy in the "has been" class. Wallace Woods, secretary of Chamber of Commerce, tried to hit the ball. He did not come near it and that puts another man in the deferred group. Three men with grand recollections of their younger days.

Reade Jones said that he enjoyed reading this column. Thanks Brother Jones. That proves that Fred Masten was wrong when he said you couldn't read.

Cliff Hall and Hugh Woods are great fellows. They had just as soon fish as work any day in the week. If you go to their store and can't find them for an hour or so and no one will tell you where they are, just put it down that they are out on a bank trying to make an honest living during the dull summer months.

It's rather hard for the editor of this column to write today. My banker, Gordon Hunter, looked at me rather hard this a. m. and it just tears me up when my banker looks cruel at me.

New Case Worker Will Come To Person Welfare Division

Tobacco Plants Nothing To Rave About

(Friday p. m.) "How does your tobacco look?" That question has been put a hundred or two times to farmers over the Person area this week. Some answer—"fair," others say "not much" and others say—it's hard to tell."

One prominent warehouseman of this city today decided that only one third of the tobacco that had been planted was dead, but he added that it was not yet too late to re-plant provided that there were enough plants to go around.

Many farmers have already planted twice, but will have to do the job again.

Rain started falling this afternoon and a ray of hope spread over the faces of those who saw on the streets. The drought had been over a month long.
