THE FAMILY

Present Weather Ideal For 1941 Peanut Crop

Heavy rains 10 days ago retarded the movement of peanuts in Northeastern North Carolina Counties, but for the most part the weather has been ideal for picking and curing, B. Troy Ferguson, district farm agent of the N. C. State College Extension Service, said today.

Farmers are busy threshing, and considerable stock is moving to market. The wide range in quality of stock offered is resulting in a wide range in the prices offered by buyers, Ferguson said in quoting a special report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The November crop report of the department indicated a slightly larger production than the report issued October 1. For North Carolina, the November report showed 285,000,000 pounds, a drop of 86,000,000 pounds from last year's revised figures.

The market for shelled goods in the southeastern area is stronger and prices higher than earlier in the month. Both offerings and trading are light.

GREATEST DAIRY NATION IS U. S. DECLARES HAIG

Milk Largest Source Of Cash Income For Farmers Of America

Raleigh, Nov. 19.—Within less than 50 years, the production and utilization of milk have so increased in this country that now the United States is the greatest of the dairy nations, Fred M. Haig, Professor of Dairying at N. C. State College, said today.

Not only is milk the nation's most widely used food, but it is also the farmers' largest source of cash income and the basis of an industry which for service and volume has few equals.

Approximately 25,000,000 dairy cows are milked daily on three-quarters of the country's 6,000,000 farms, creating an annual income of $3,500,000,000.

"In North Carolina," Haig said, we have made steady progress in dairying, especially during the past 15 years. Still, there are far too many farms in the State without a single milk cow. The lack is most general on tobacco and cotton farms."

While these farmers should continue to produce their main money crop, the State College professor pointed out, they should add a few dairy cows as a sideline. On thousands of these farms, sufficient feed for five to ten cows could be grown without interfering with the production of regular cash crops.

Haig explained that an average farm cow will produce 600 gallons of milk annually containing 232 pounds of butterfat. At 25 cents a gallon, this milk would be worth $150 yearly. The manure from the cow is worth $20, making a total income per cow of $170.

Where a market for milk is not available, either sweet or sour cream may be sold to creameries. If sold in this manner, the butterfat is worth 30 cents a pound or $69.50 annually. To this must be added the value of the skim milk left on the farm for use as calf, chicken and pig feed. Valuing this at $25 and adding the $20 worth of manure would mean a total income of $114.60 from the cow where cream is sold instead of milk.
