Baptist Church Circles Meet In Joint Session

Amid a beautiful setting the Woman's Missionary Society of First Baptist church began their year's activities, on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock under the capable leadership of Mrs. A. R. Warren, who is serving her second year as president.

Thirty six members heard a most helpful program which was rendered in an unusual and impressive manner. The meeting was opened with the singing of the hymn for the year, "All Hail The Power of Jesus' Name." The watchword for the year was repeated, "That all the Kingdoms of The Earth May Know That Thou Art the Lord, even Thou only," Isaiah, 37:20, after which Mrs. R. L. Wilburn led in prayer.

Circle No. 1, Mrs. R. P. Burns, leader, had charge of the program. Mrs. W. Y. Pass gave the devotional, entitled, "Friendship", and also led in a devotional prayer.

The subject for discussion, "witnessing", was very effectively given by candle light. There was a miniature light house and as each part was spoken a candle was lit from this central light, which of course represented "Jesus, the Light of the World."

Mrs. R. P. Burns' part on the program was "witnessing by The Light." Others were, "Witnessing Through the Ages" and "Christian Witnessing Today", by Mrs. Curtis Oakley. The fact was brought out that Christian witnessing is continuing to a most remarkable degree in the countries where persecution prevails.

Mrs. T. B. Waddy told of the "World's Need of Baptists Witnessing." There are fifteen million Baptists in sixty different countries today. Her plea was that we might all be great witnesses for Him in this day of trouble, bloodshed and war.

The program part of the meeting was brought to a close by Mrs. Edwin Bowles leading a prayer of dedication to the accomplishment of soft music.

The reading of the minutes was given and a discussion followed of the work of the year just closed. This has been very satisfactory, and all were urged to "press forward" in the work during the year 1943.

We now have seven Circles, four at day and three at night. The Circle leaders for the year are: Mrs. R. P. Burns, Mrs. A. F. James, Mrs. W. W. Morrell, Mrs. Dewey Young, Mrs. Alma Morton, and Mrs. Robert Harris.

Much enthusiasm was shown at this, the first meeting of the year, and it is believed that the year ahead promises to be one of dedication and witnessing in the Lord's Vineyard.

LIBRARY CORNER

Library Hours: 12:00-7:00

We, of the Person County Public Library, Chub Lake street are proud to announce that we meet, with one, exception, requirement of the North Carolina Library Commission for an adequate Reference Collection for a town of 5,000 population.

Although this exception (an up-to-date encyclopedia) is the exception, we feel that it is not a tremendous lack because the material is supplemented in other forms. It is unusual for a library of this size to have books on practically every general subject. Our library is fortunate in this respect because we have received this type of books from the Cincinnati Public Library Duplicate Collection and from the Victory Book Civilian Collection for Defense Areas. May we list below the other required reference tools?

If the library had an Encyclopedia Britannica or Encyclopedia Americana, we would fall in the same classification as a town library of 25,000. This is, of course, due to the fact that we have a general collection that ordinarily is found in a library with book buying policies of long excellent standing.

Perhaps all the mysteries in the world wouldn't appeal to your pocket book but a defective or western would. May the Person County Public Library suggest the following two selections from our new Pay Duplicate Collection?

Field: Law Man Of Powder Valley

The law-abiding ranchers of Powder Valley were riled about crooked Ben Swart and his shady methods. When Sheriff Grimes and his wife were found brutally murdered public opinion reached the boiling point.

Pat Stevens' reputation for bravery earned him the job of avenging the murders and cleaning up the Valley. Sam and Ezra's loyalty to Pat got them appointed deputies. They didn't like it — but they knew better than to argue with Pat once his mind was made up.

There was plenty of trouble ahead — and that they did like. A sheriff has to stay within the law; Swart had no such frustration. The deputies, too, had to fight with one eye on the law; Swart's gang, on the other hand, was tough and ruthless.

The story of these three and their desperate battle with the elements of brutality and disorder is his most spiningling to date in this unusual and hair-raising series.

Colt: The Sure Fire Kid

In all the troubled territory, no man had a tougher rep or a blacker hate in his heart than young Luke North, the Sure-Fire-Kid, who'd been framed for murder and hounded into riding the owl trail. And always, wherever he went, there too were the hired guns — and the havoc of Jabe Towner, the man who had framed him and whom North swore by the Code he would kill.

Here is Arizona in the gun-governed '89's when men lived and died by the swiftness of their trigger fingers and life was a touch-and-go thing that might last no longer than sundown.

Many People Help Pvt. Keseros But None Take Award

Private Joseph Keseros, of 310 Inf., Reg. Headquarters company, Camp Butner, spent the weekend in Roxboro and while here lost a black onyx ring. It was his 1937 Mansfield, Ohio, high school, class ring and he valued it.

First he went to the police, then sought a newspaper man. It was one o'clock in the morning. Private Keseros went back to camp. A few days later he received a note. Finder of the ring was Willard Abbutt, of Roxboro, who discovered it in the parking space back of Person County Court house, and turned it over to City Policeman George Walker.

Walker took the ring to a jewelers, had it straightened and polished. The jeweler did the job free. The ring went to Keseros. Keseros wrote to Walker, enclosing a promised five dollar reward and an extra dollar for bonus. Abbutt would not claim the award and Keseros now has his ring and his money and a very high opinion of the value of advertising and the courtesy of Abbutt and Walker and the jeweler.

About 30,000 pounds of metal are salvaged on each round trip of large U. S. transports, ferrying armed forces to the Pacific fronts, from thousands of cans of pineapple, grapefruit, and tomato juice consumed by service men en route.
