Once Again.....

Once again the golfers of this City went to the golf course in a wagon that was drawn by two mules. This time the wagon did not have rubber tires but rather steel ones. The ride was quite rough but the golfers landed in about an hour and had the situation well in hand. The trip required just about an hour.

So far there has been no better solution to the problem than a horse or mule drawn vehicle. It takes time to get there and the same to return but it is one way of playing golf and right now appears to be the only way.

Even the fellows are not getting to play golf over once a week and some of them not that much they have voted to continue paying their dues to the country club and to do all that they can keep it going.

Of course all of this "not playing" has a tendency to make scores go quite high. This business of not playing over once a week is not good for the fellows who shoot in the high thirties. Even Tom Woody took a forty three or four last Sunday.

P. S. We are sorry that this column has to keep talking about golf each week, but it is the only sport that is going at all in this county at the present time.

TEN THINGS TO DO:

1. Repair all fences. Brace corner posts that are giving way. Repair gates.
2. Cut flue-wood.
3. Prepare plant beds.
4. Make plans for early potatoes, cabbage, carrots, onions, and peas.
5. Check all terraces. If any have broken, mend them at once. Find out what caused the break. Remove the cause. Perhaps the mouth of the terrace is not wide enough.
6. Is it possible to dig a basement, if you do not have one, and prepare for storing canned fruits and vegetables next summer?
7. Do your hogs have access to a mineral mixture of 10 lbs. of ground limestone, 10 lbs. steamed home meal and 5 lbs. common salt?
8. Get instructions from County Agent's office on "Brooding 25 or 50 Baby Chicks in Small Lamp or Electric Brooder". These suggestions may save you several dollars by preventing chick losses.
9. Be sure to prune all grape vines that have not already been pruned.
10. Prune apple and peach trees. Get spray material and spray pump ready for use with dormant spray.

Smaller war plants representatives, Mr. McCallum said, also would like to be advised of instances where plants, although now running satisfactorily, will be without work within 30 days and have no prospect of further orders.

Operators of distressed smaller industrial plants in this county are asked to write or telephone T. J. Love, Capital Club Building, Raleigh.

From Autos To Planes

Pictured above are the major steps taken at the General Motors Eastern Aircraft plant at Linden, N. J., in the first complete conversion of an automotive plant to the production of finished airplanes. From top to bottom: 1—The old auto assembly line. 2—Demolition. 3—Stripped plant. 4—Planning. 5—Training. 6—The new airplane assembly line. 7—Flyway. In addition to the Linden factory, four other Eastern Aircraft plants of G. M. which were manufacturing automotive parts or assembling automobiles a year ago are now producing fighter planes and torpedo bombers for the U. S. Navy. It was necessary to rip out all the automotive equipment, redesign many sections of the five plants and engineer new processes to take advantage, where possible, of the mass production experience of automobile days.

BROUGHTON SAYS STATES TO BLAME LOSS OF POWER

Speaks At Meeting In Baltimore; Makes Predictions.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30. — The Council of State Governments heard Governor J. M. Broughton of N. C., blame the States themselves for "much of the almost terrifying expansion of Federal encroachment upon the original domain of the States."

But, Broughton predicted in his prepared address, "we may discover in the years immediately ahead that Washington is more disposed to pass the buck to the States than to raid their jurisdictions."

The council's manpower and defense programs, expected to embrace the State governmental group's most important recommendations, were presented just before the council adjourned its three-day sixth annual general assembly.

"Those of us who believe in the fundamental principles of State's rights and local self-government," Governor Broughton said, "May as well concede frankly that much of the almost terrifying expansion of Federal encroachment upon the original domain of the States has come about because State governments failed to meet the challenge of the new day."

"Inadequate educational opportunities, archaic labor laws and regulations, unrelieved hardships and inequities suffered by the working people," he continued, led them "all too frequently to look for relief to the Federal Government."

He added that it was "unfortunately true that there is a large and growing group of theorists who believe that our national government should take all control and authority . . ."

These theorists "have been quick to capitalize upon national distress or need," he said. "This group has sought and still seeks to use even the war emergency as a pretext for expanding their sociological experiments. Unsound measures which were repudiated in normal times have been trotted out under new regalia, accompanied by a waving of the flag."

He said an increase in Federal powers during the war was inevitable but expressed a conviction that the rights of the States would be returned after the war.

The national debt would deter, the Governor added, any Federal embarking upon new and costly experiments in governmental service . . . The national debt will lay a restraining hand, I think, on the ambitions of our Federal Government."

Smaller War Plants Urged To Contact WPB

Charlotte, Jan. 30. — Smaller war plants in Person county in distress because of war conditions are urged by the War Production Board to communicate immediately with WPB's smaller war plants representative in Raleigh.

"The WPB has worked out a plan to help these distressed plants," C. E. McCallum, production manager for the Carolinas said, "and we hope all industrial concerns of this type in the two states which fear they may be forced to close because of the war will contact their nearest WPB office immediately."

The smaller war plants division of the WPB, he pointed out, is intended primarily to assist plants employing 200 persons or less, but assistance also is given to larger industries where they are located in communities largely dependent upon their operation.

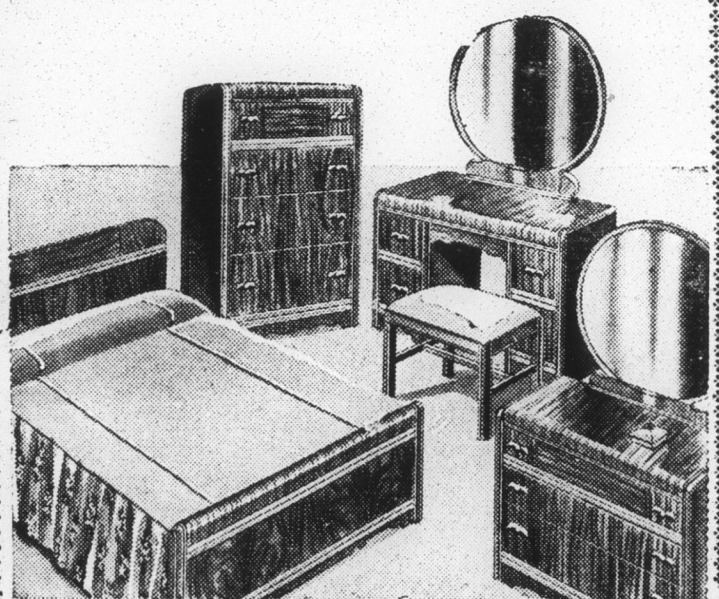

A distressed plant is defined by the WPB as one in which the present number of employees has dropped below 50 percent of normal—the average for the calendar year 1941. Industrial concerns having several departments, one or more of which may be closed because of material shortages or for other reasons also may qualify as distressed plants.

Mr. McCallum explained that the smaller war plants division in Washington maintains liaison officers in the procurement offices of the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission, Treasury Department, Federal Housing Administration, Lend-Lease and the Board of Economic Warfare, and is in a position to secure prime and sub-contracts to help "smaller war plants produce their share in the war effort."

The smaller war plants division also is prepared to supply engineering, managerial and financial assistance to smaller plants in distress. Such plants which desire assistance, including woodworking, furniture, sheet metal, maintenance and repair shops, full fashioned hosiery mills and others, are asked to communicate with their nearest WPB office and supply the following information:

Normal product, normal production capacity, average number of employees for year 1941, the type of work they are now doing and, if war work, the present number of employees, service which placed contract whether prime or sub-contract and if sub-contract, name of the
