Golf Tees

A lot of work has been done on the golf course this winter and the entire course looks much better. As a matter of fact it is in much better shape than it has been for years. There is not as much rough as has been and the greens and fairways are in very good shape. One big improvement has been to the men's tees. A large amount of new dirt has been added to the tees and one does not have to hunt thirty minutes to find a place to stick his tee. The tees had worn down to a place where the ball almost had to be placed in a rut for the drive and that made matters bad.

But—there has been absolutely no work done to the ladies' tees. These really needed the work worse than the men's tees, but nothing was done to them. You might say that not many ladies play golf on the course and that is the truth, but you can hardly blame them for not playing. Very little of anything has ever been done to encourage the ladies on our course and there seems to be no good reason why they should play.

There are quite a few ladies in Roxboro who would like to play golf if they were given any encouragement, but so far they have been sadly neglected. Any reader of this column, if there is one, might say: "Oh well we can't do everything," and that is true but as far as the ladies are concerned about the only thing that has been done is to tell them that they can play if they want to.

GASOLINE DEALERS ONLY ONES TO USE GUM SHEETS

Shortages Force Other Dealers To Use Envelopes.

In order to receive shipments of merchandise without delay and to protect themselves against the loss of valuable ration currency, retailers and wholesalers should be sure that their deposits are properly identified to meet the requirements of ration banks, Philip L. Thomas, chairman of the Person War Price and Rationing office, said today.

Because of production difficulties and short supplies, gummed sheets will be used only by gasoline depositors. Envelopes are to be used by those persons dealing with sugar, coffee, and processed foods until the official envelope adopted by the OPA has been printed and distributed. The trade is requested to use any envelope available. In order for the coupons enclosed to be accepted for deposit by banks the following requirements are necessary:

Each envelope must contain up to but not over 50 stamps. Only one type of stamp may be enclosed in each envelope. For example only coffee stamps, sugar or processed food stamps may be put in one envelope. Processed food stamps with different letters but identical point value and valid dates may be inserted in the same envelope.

The name and the address of the person inserting the stamps must appear on the face of the envelope. The envelope must have the type of stamp enclosed, such as points or pounds, the number of stamps, the value of each stamp and the total pound or point value of the stamps enclosed on the outside of the envelope.

The person who actually inserts the stamps is legally responsible for the contents of the envelope. His signature along with the name of the firm and the addresses must be written on the flap. Before depositing the stamps the wholesaler must endorse the envelope, giving his name and address and the date of deposit.

E. C. Brooks, Jr., State Senator, To Face Trial

State Senator Eugene C. Brooks, Jr., of Durham, was arrested in Wake County early this month on a charge of drunk-driving, it was revealed Friday.

A hearing will be held in the Apex Recorder's Court on Monday, April 5, according to information received here. The case originally was set for March 15 but a continuance was granted at the request of Brooks' counsel.

Senator Brooks was arrested on Highway 70-A by Corporal T. E. Cooke of the State Highway Patrol after his automobile allegedly collided with an Army motorcycle it was said. No one was injured in the accident and Brooks was released under $100 bond pending trial.

* Brooks served this year as Senator for Durham and Person Counties.

Revive Forgotten Music On Screen

Musical instruments, silenced and forgotten since the days of Haroun-Al-Raschid, provide the background music for Walter Wanger's "Arabian Nights," at the Palace Theatre Thursday and Friday.

Although none of the ancient Arabian instruments exist in any museum, Previn succeeded in discovering descriptions and the type of ancient music played on them.

Among these instruments is the rehab, progenitor of the modern violin, which had two strings of woven camel hair and was played with a bow; the canon, another stringed instrument; the zamar, prototype of the oboe; the kefyne, a form of trumpet, and the dulcimer, which Arabians played on strings tuned in sets of threes, and which, hundreds of years later, was developed in the piano.

I wouldn't exchange it for any other type."

Big families? I think of Dad and Ma Hoskins and their thirteen children! Thirteen's a lot of youngsters to control. But Dad found a way to keep 'em out of mischief by "self-regulation."

"You kids can check up on yourselves," he says. "When somebody gets out of order, you call a meeting and dish out the punishment."

You know, the idea worked. And I mention it because it reminds me of what the beer industry is doing.

They've united with the beer distributors in a self-regulation program—to help the authorities "clean up or close up" offending taverns that bring discredit to a decent industry.

From where I sit, that's a fine thing for the brewers to do—to see that beer is sold in clean, decent, friendly places.
