

Farm Slaughterer May Produce All Wanted In Home

A farm slaughterer may produce all the meat he wishes for his home consumption, according to L. D. Crump, of Raleigh, associate food rationing officer. However, if he desires to sell some of this meat he will be required to apply to the U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board for a permit. The War Board will give him a permit number; this number must be on a card and attached to the pieces of meat before it is sold. When this meat is sold, the

Lou Gehrig's Widow Assists With Details

A hundred - and - one little tricks of speech and manner contributed by Eleanor Gehrig aid Gary Cooper in bringing to the screen a realistic portrait of her late husband, Lou Gehrig, in Samuel Goldwyn's production, "The Pride of the Yankees," showing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Palace Theatre.

Throughout the filming of the picture, Mrs. Gehrig, worked in close cooperation with Cooper and Director Sam Wood in order to supply them with every detail about her husband which could contribute to Cooper's portrayal of the great Yankee baseball star upon whose life the film is based.

In addition, Mrs. Gehrig supplied information regarding their courtship, marriage and intimate family life so that it could be incorporated into the script and thus give a truly authentic picture of Gehrig's character and career.

farmer is required to accept red stamps from War Book II or ration checks from the groceryman. He may sell also all the butter that he wishes provided that he collects stamps at the rate of 8 points per pound. He must turn these in at the end of each month with his report to his local War Price and Rationing Board.

The Government, as far as the ration programs are concerned, is not interested in anything that the farmer raises or produces for his own use. But, if he has a surplus and wants to sell these products, they are interested in that part of the products produced. Crump's statement was received here by the Person OPA office.

STORE SWITCHES FOR BLACKOUTS CAN BE BOUGHT

Priority Obtainable For Such Equipment. Some Arrangement Must Be Made.

Landon C. Bradsher, Person Director of Civilian defense, and Maynard C. Clayton, Roxboro's Chief Air Raid Warden, today have received information from the Chief of Air Raid Wardens, Raleigh division, a warning that filling station operators, merchants and store-keepers "must cut out all visible lights when they leave their premises" or "must install an outside switch, with a small sign, "Air Raid Switch" and so notify their wardens".

In any case, lights, left burning at night must be so arranged that wardens can cut them off. Persons who fail to put out such
