Blues Win In Match

Yesterday the "Blues" defeated the "Reds" in a return golf match, the Reds having won the first match. The score was 18 1-2 to 14 1-2. This evened the series and the next match will probably be played Wednesday the 28th.

H. M. Beam is captain of the Reds and Tobey Ledbetter is captain of the Blues. Both are very much interested in golf and can shoot a nice game any time that it is necessary.

After the match on Wednesday, Lewis Long served a chicken barbecue supper and as far as the golfers were concerned it was O. K. in every way. If there is anything better than barbecued chicken, you will have to go to a long way to find it. All who were present had a big time eating regardless of whether they had won or lost their match.

It has been suggested that these local matches between the "Blues" and the Reds be continued at regular intervals and if you think that it is a good idea you are asked to express your opinion to either Dr. Beam, captain of the "Reds", or to Tobey Ledbetter, captain of the "Blues".

After all is said and done if we can't travel to play Mebane, we might as well beat the fire out of those "Reds".

Negro Agent Has Program Dealing With Conservation

The Negro Home Demonstration club of the County Home community held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Velma Williams, with the President, Mrs. Alberta Smith, presiding.

The subject for discussion was "Food Preservation." A large membership attended and gained helpful information concerning the canning of foods.

Miss A. M. Tuck, Negro Home agent, gave a canning demonstration and placed emphasis on the selection of foods for canning, with the "Straight from the vine to the can," slogan.

The following members were appointed project leaders: Nutrition and Health, Mrs. Sarah Peace; Food Production, Mrs. Lula Lee; Food Preservation, Mrs. Alberta Smith; clothing, Mrs. Willie Barnett; House furnishing, Mrs. Eva Graves; Home management, Mrs. Annie Pettiford; Home Beautification, Mrs. Daisy Woods; Home poultry, Mrs. Della Smith; home dairy, Mrs. Belle Bradsher; family relationship, Mrs. Velma Williams.

As a social feature of the meeting some of the group enjoyed bingo.

OFFICIALS IN ABATTOIR SEE BLACK MARKET CITY

The City of Roxboro resolutions are similar in tone to resolutions adopted last week by the Person Meat Board. City action was brought to a head by protests of City and County meat dealers and butchers, many of whom appeared before the City Board and demanded some action. Licenses of all City of Roxboro and Person County butchers or slaughterers have been suspended.

First action occurred last month when Person County Commissioners declined to cooperate with the City in construction of an abattoir to meet OPA and Health Department standards. The City Board has several times before this considered the matter but the present set of resolutions comes closest to being definite action. Some City officials have contended that the building of an abattoir should be undertaken by private concerns, but nothing has yet been done in that quarter. Among those most agitated by the meat shortage are Roxboro grocery operators.

Among butchers the last one to have his license revoked was Victor Yarborough, one of the largest in the County, who last week expressed himself as being in a quandry, since prices obtainable for slaughtered meats will not justify his taking animals to other places such as Durham, Hillsboro and Oxford to have them slaughtered and then brought back to Person County and Roxboro to be sold.

Among City Board members most interested in seeing that something be done is Gordon C. Hunter. Construction of an abattoir here has been discussed for two months, but it has now developed that there is an apparent cross-up between the OPA and the Health Departments and whatever of vigorous interest there was in construction of an abattoir here has been weakened by departmental frictions first discovered and reported upon last week by the Person Meat Board at its Thursday session.

Complete text of the City of Roxboro resolutions is as follows:

Whereas, although the production of beef cattle for market is comparatively speaking a recent industry in Person County, it is nevertheless one which promises to grow rapidly if properly encouraged, since an increasing number of our farmers have taken it up in the past few years, some of them on rather a large scale; and whereas, the majority of the farmers in the county are systematically increasing their production of pigs and hogs every year; and whereas, both of these developments are seriously threatened by the present attitude of the State Division of the O. P. A. and local Board of Health in withholding or unduly restricting permission for the slaughter and marketing of cattle and hogs;

Now, therefore, it is resolved by the Board of Commissioners of Roxboro:

Section 1. That we most respectfully but earnestly protest the action by which the orderly marketing of beef cattle and hogs produced in Person County is seriously obstructed, thus not only discouraging the production of these animals but depriving the local markets and the public generally of much needed supplies of meats; and we suggest that if possible some way be found of relaxing the regulations so as to facilitate the marketing of local cattle and hogs.

Section 2. That the situation is gravely acute. It is growing more difficult day by day to secure even a modicum of the needed supply of meats, especially beef, for domestic use. And dealers report that there is little chance of securing more than a dribble from the outside. It is quite plain that a meat famine impends, which unfortunately may eventually result in a black market, unless these governmental agencies who really possess the power come to the rescue; otherwise the responsibility will rest with them.

Section 3. This Board is entirely sympathetic toward any practical project for the establishment of an abattoir locally, and propose to encourage any such movement in every reasonable way. But in the meantime, we are unable to overlook the fact that much of the material required for the construction and equipment of an abattoir is vital to the war effort, nor do we believe that it is consistent with sound judgment to be over-precipitate in a matter of such real and permanent consequence to the county.

Cab Dreams Up 'Greechy Joe' As Song Hit

The best songs sometimes come from ideas that just won't leave a fellow alone.

That's Cab Calloway's opinion on the matter, and he has just composed a brand new number to prove it.

The song is titled "Greechy Joe." It's about a fellow Cab knew about fifteen years ago. The chap's name was Joe Greechy and for years, off and on, the refrain, Joe Greechy, Greechy Joe, has been tormenting the maestro of jive.

While working with Lena Horne and Bill Robinson on 20th Century-Fox's musical "Stormy Weather," Cab heard Lena humming a tune between takes on the film.

"What's the name of that tune you're humming?" he asked.

"It's nothing," Lena answered, "just something I hum now and then."

"Yeah," mused Calloway, "if we take the first bars of it, and put it in four-fourths and barrel-house the segue—" He jumped up. "I believe I'm going to bury Greechy Joe, once and for all!" He raced to a piano and that's how the number, which he recorded during production layoffs, was born.

"Stormy Weather," which is at the Palace Theatre Thursday and Friday, is an entertainer's idea of an entertainment picture. It contains more than seventy-five percent more music, singing and dancing than the average musical picture and calls on many of the top-notch names in the entertainment field to round out the cast.
