FUNERAL RITES FOR LAWRENCE J. JONES BEING

For the past year Jones had been employed with a drydock company, Norfolk, and had been at home but a few weeks, expecting a call to military service. He was educated at Roxboro high school and was known to many citizens here.

The wreck was second major traffic mishap for Rogers, who last Summer was charged with driving a car which struck and injured Miss Glenna Mae Hicks, 17, near Longhurst. The same car, a Chevrolet sedan, is said to have been the one wrecked Tuesday night. The Rogers-Hicks case was settled in Person Recorder's court last month, where he was also tried on a separate count of careless and reckless driving and speeding and had his driving license revoked. Hearing panel of OPA subsequently took from him both A and C books.

It is reported that Jones and Rogers and another young man, Paul Harris, stopped at the Sam Barnette service station about twenty minutes before the fatal wreck and that Harris got out of the machine near the Court House square before the others continued what was planned as a trip to Danville, Va.

of Fort Bragg, Gen. Kennedy's aid-de-camp, who first wrote to Mr. Fisher and to Gordon C. Hunter, of this City, Comm er of Lester Blackwell Post.

Hunter, after consultation with Fisher, today said that the presentation exercises will be held at eleven o'clock in the morning in the auditorium, Roxboro high school. Introduction of Gen. Kennedy will be by Lieut. Gov. R. L. Harris and presiding officer will be Commander Hunter. Lieut. Gardner, a son of former Gov. O. Max Gardner will come to Roxboro with Gen. Kennedy.

The program will include a musical selection by Roxboro high school glee club under direction of Miss Katherine Cooper and group singing of "America" and the "Star Spangled Banner" lead by W. Wallace Woods. Prayer and benediction will be by the Rev. Rufus J. Womble, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

the Army about three years and was in the Pearl Harbor area at time of that attack. He met death at Guadalcanal while manning a machine gun under heavy fire and was praised for his courage and resourcefulness in a citation by Lieut, Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commanding U.S. Army forces in the South Pacific. High praise was also accorded him by Capt. Kenneth C. Robertson, under whom he was serving at time of his death. Fisher's mother was the late Mrs. Myrtle Guthrie Fisher, of Nathalie, Va., but his stepmother, together with a number of brothers and sisters lives in Roxboro. One brother James C. Fisher, is also with the Army, having entered the service last October. Others are Roy Fisher, of Nathalie, now a student at the University of North Carolina, and Mrs. Elwood Clements and Miss Helen Fisher, sisters, both of Nathalie, while Roxboro brothers and sisters, students in Roxboro district schools are W D. Wilbur and Hilda Fisher.

Fisher, Sr., said today that he hopes Miss Fisher and other Nathalie relatives will be able to attend the exercises here. Expected to attend in a body will be members of Lester Blackwell Post No. 138.

Kennedy, who was graduated from West Point in 1908, saw his first service with the 6th Cavalry, in the Philippine Islands on the Island of Jolo, then the farthest south of the American garrison. As a young lieutenant in this outpost of the American forces, he was engaged in several battles against the rebellious and hostile Moros, and it was his exploits in one of these engagements that gained for him the Medal of Honor.

In the final fight against the notorious Moro bandit outlaw, Jikiri, who had ravaged the Sulu Sea for two years, Lieut. Kennedy engaged in hand-to-hand combat with the trapped and desperate Moros, and was severely wounded before the band was subdued.

The Moros had been chased down and had made their final stand in a large cave in the crater of an extinct volcano. After a two-day fight the American troops gained the rocks at the mouth of the cave. Young Kennedy, with three other volunteers, forced an entrance into the cave to destroy or capture the 15 or 20 remaining members of the outlaw band.

After heavy fighting at close quarters, the Moros made a rush for the mouth of the cave. In the ensuing melee all the bandits soldier stationed in Guadalcanal, were either killed or captured and young Kennedy was severethe Purple Heart. #### October Paper Cut Ordered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29-The War Production Board today ordered an additional five per cent cut in the allowable use of newsprint during the fourth quarter of 1943.

The reduction, which will be superimposed on the previous five per cent third-quarter cut, had been expected. WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson forecast ator Buck (R-Del.) is fed up with it last week in a letter to the "bad pennies" with which, he re-
