

GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL AND CHURCH SUNDAY

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

For the LORD knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

Psalms 1:6.

This Week's EDITORIAL

The four-way group which is scheduled to begin a general study of industrial locations in Western North Carolina within the near future, has a big job and an important one that can mean much to the entire area.

Black Mountain, and W. N. C., in general, needs payrolls to give a year around prosperity. Long recognized as possessed of one of the most delightful climates in America, this section has been known as a tourist center for many years.

But in addition to tourists the need for industrial development is great in order to give the area a well rounded economy. All the resources are here—labor, climate, materials, transportation. It's time the industrial world found it out.

THE GLEANERS CLASS

Are you the one who was absent from the Gleaners' class of the First Baptist church of Black Mountain Sunday morning?

If so, you missed something. This class is for young matrons and the teacher Mrs. W. B. Kyles would like to have you bring your Bible and come Sunday morning to study about how Paul makes a new start.

—Mrs. Joe Moore of Ridgecrest is visiting relatives in Raleigh, N. C., and New York State.

Services At St. Margaret Mary

Sunday Mass, 9:00 a. m. Confession before mass.

Father Walter S. Higgins, pastor.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ammons returned this week from their wedding trip to Indiana and visited the latter's parents, the Rev. L. C. Stevens and Mrs. Stevens at Old Fort for the week-end. They are making their home at Waynesville.

Willing Workers To Serve Chicken Dinner

The Willing Workers Band of the Black Mountain Church of God will serve a chicken dinner at the Blue Ridge Cafe Saturday, October 19, starting at 5:00 p. m., and lasting until 8:30 p. m. Proceeds from the supper will be used for the work of the church.

Tickets will be on sale this week and next week at the News office and by members of the church and pastor.

Funeral Today For Old Fort Child

Funeral services for J. L. Lytle, 7, who died in a Marion hospital Tuesday, will be held this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Bethel Methodist church at Crooked Creek in the Old Fort area. Burial will be in Cherry Springs cemetery. Officiating will be the Rev. Mr. Stevens.

Grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lytle with whom he made his home, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Norman Hampton of Swannanoa; one sister, Mabel Hampton, and one brother, Vernon.

Harrison Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

TO BEGIN REVIVAL

The Rev. C. E. Allred and his wife will begin a revival at the Black Mountain Church of God, October 21. One of the features of the services will be special singing by Mrs. Allred. Mrs. Dixie Chambers is the pastor.

OLD FORT MEETING

The McDowell County Home Demonstration club will bring a busy month to a close on October 31 when they are scheduled to meet at the Old Fort community building at 2 p. m.

—Mrs. Lessie Swann of Old Fort had as her guests for the week-end: Miss Mona Smith and Mrs. Verna Odum of Bristol and Carl Swann of Hickory.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PAUL'S BACKGROUND AND EARLY LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:39; 22:3, 27, 28; 23:4, 5. Philippians 3:5, 6. MEMORY SELECTION—Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth—Ecclesiastes 12:1.

God works through men. When we study his work we study the lives of men—all types of men—but all yielded to him, and used by him.

Paul stands out as one of the most influential characters in all history. His life and letters, which we are to study the next three months, have had a tremendous effect on the human race. Especially is this true of his position and influence in the Christian church.

Under God he was the one who carried the gospel to the Gentile world, and then began the great missionary program of the church, which goes on to this very day. His writings are the steady and extensive foundation of much of our study and teaching of Christian doctrine.

I. Birthplace (Acts 21:39).

The place of a man's birth has a definite influence on his personality and usefulness. Tarsus, where Paul was born, was one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world of that day. It was a Roman province, where men proudly held their citizenship in the great empire. Greek, the language of world culture, was spoken there.

Tarsus was a great educational and university center. It was in a rich and fertile area. It was at the head of navigation on the river Cydnus and on a great Roman highway. It was the capital of the province.

II. Education (Acts 22:3).

After his early training in the home and under rabbis in Tarsus, he went to Jerusalem to study in what was probably the best-equipped Hebrew college of that day, under one of the greatest teachers, Gamaliel.

Somewhere in his rearing he was taught a trade, for every Jewish boy learned to support himself with his own hands (see Acts 18:3).

He was instructed in the Word of God, and had a consuming zeal for religious things. Until he was converted, it counted against Christianity, but afterward it became a flaming fire to spread the truth in all the world.

His combined zeal and knowledge made him a man of truly broad mind and tolerant spirit (Acts 5:35-39).

III. Citizenship (Acts 22:27, 28).

The mighty power and prestige of Rome stood behind every Roman citizen. Paul used his citizenship for protection. It helped him in his service for the Lord. Its prestige was used for God's glory.

It is a good sign when a man is proud of his national background, and it speaks well for the nation to which he belongs. But Paul came (as every Christian does) to know and appreciate a higher citizenship.

IV. Religion (Acts 26:4, 5).

Though a free-born Roman citizen, Paul was a Jew, and loyal to the religion of his people. He was a member of the strictest sect, the Pharisees, in which his family had held membership for generations.

He lived consistently in the observance of the laws and customs of his religious faith, and none could point to any flaw in his doctrine or failure in his life.

When he became a follower of Christ, there was no ground on which anyone could dismiss his conversion and his witness as the outbreak of a new viewpoint on the part of a renegade Jew.

It is to a man's credit that he faithfully lives up to the beliefs of the religion he professes. The result of such sincerity will be conversion, if he, like Paul, meets Christ and honestly faces the question of loyalty to him.

V. Race (Phil. 3:5, 6).

Paul counted it to be an honor to be known as a Hebrew and gloried in the fact that he was born, trained and lived within that racial as well as religious circle.

No one need ever be ashamed of his race, although he may be ashamed of things which members of his race have done. But there are even more things of which to be proud, and a man may add to the standing of his race by living his own life in cleanness of character and nobility of purpose. It is never a commendable thing to be ashamed of the race of one's fathers.

We must remember, however, that all the things in which Paul gloried, he found to be but refuse when he compared them with Christ (see Phil. 3:7, 8).

Everything worthwhile in a man's life God can glorify and use. But none of them, no matter how precious they may seem to be, compares with fellowship with and service for the Lord.

College Students Make Annual Trip To Mt. Mitchell

Approximately one hundred Montreat College students and teachers participated in the annual sightseeing trek to the top of Mt. Mitchell on Monday, with a picnic lunch provided by college and high school athletic associations. This was the third of a series of such trips, with scenic rides which included Andrew's Geyser and Chimney Rock in the past and plans for others under consideration.

Also included in the year's program of entertainment, which is under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, are trips to the Civic Music Concerts in Asheville, to which fifty tickets have been allotted Montreat college, and special programs scheduled for each Saturday night.

Plan Rally For Swannanoa Game

The Black Mountain High school started the football season this year with a rally held at the grammar school. The participants met at the Gulf filling station and paraded through town with fire wood and signs. After the bonfire was built the Alma Mater was sung and the cheer leaders took charge, leading cheers for the school and team. This was followed by short talks by Pete Brittain, Bob Reese, Eugene Byrd, and T. W. Nesbitt. A short skit was given in which a dummy, representing the opposing team, was burned on the bon-fire. This was followed by more cheers and the Alma Mater.

Two rallies of this kind have been held and another has been planned for the night before the game with Swannanoa. You are invited to take part.

THE MAN WHO WINS

Walter E. Isenhour

A man may win the laurels of fame,

Or hang a rainbow in the sky, But through misconduct lose his name

And die unhonored by and by; But he who lived a godly life,

Although he may not famous be, And helps to rid the world of strife,

Will shine through all eternity.

It's not the man who does the most

To make a big display and show; It's not the man who likes to boast

That has within his soul a go To run the race and win the crown

And of his best to others give. That he may bless the world around

By helping men for God to live.

The man that wins is he who wills

To do the will of God above, Whose heart and soul our Savior fills

With grace and peace and joy and love;

And from his life there shines a light

To help some struggling soul along

The path that leads to heaven bright

Where he may join the saintly throng.

To win is not an idle game

That simple little children play; It isn't doing things for fame

That fade and die at close of day;

It is to do what means the most To help a sinful world to God,

That one may help to lead a host Along the road that saints have trod.
