

Black Mountain College Presents Housing Exhibit

The public is cordially invited to attend an exhibit at Black Mountain college of the college housing plans from 1933 till the present. The exhibit, which traces the evolution of the various plans for new buildings at the college, consists of photographs, drawings, blueprints, and models of the proposed buildings. It will be on display through Friday, November 15.

graphs and floor plans of Blue Ridge, which was the college's home from its founding in 1933 until 1941. Step two of the exhibit shows the plans that were made by Walter Gropius and Marcel Breuer for a group of permanent buildings that were to be erected at Lake Eden. These plans were drawn up when the College purchased its present Lake Eden site in 1937. Lake Eden was selected after several years of searching for the best possible site. The Gropius-Breuer plans called for a group of large, connected buildings of modernistic design, which would be built right over the banks of Lake Eden. The wooden summer resort buildings then standing at Lake Eden were to be torn down. The plans never got beyond the preliminary stage, and were abandoned in 1939 because of the war.

Lt. Jane Wade On Terminal Leave

After completing three years and three months as an army nurse, Lt. Jane Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wade, arrived in Black Mountain last Friday from Ft. Lewis, Washington. She is on terminal leave until December 20, and has no plans for the future, but will probably return to private duty.

Lt. Wade completed her nursing training in the Presbyterian Hospital in Charlotte, February, 1943, and did private duty until called to service in September, 1943. She was in the ETO for a little over a year, and was with the First Army during combat. After the war she was with the Army of Occupation for 6 months before returning to the United States in December 1945.

The college is erecting some temporary buildings to take care of a record enrollment. These must by law be torn down in two years. The exhibit was prepared by Don Wight, Henry Bergman, John Bailey, and Paul Williams, students at Black Mountain College.

National Education Week Observed By Church of God

As this is National Education week, the regular weekly services of the Church of God will be dedicated to the promotion of education, officials of the Church of God announce.

Special emphasis will be put upon the Bible Training school and college, located at Sevierville, Tennessee. The new location of this school will be in Cleveland, Tennessee, sometime in 1947, as the Church of God has purchased from the Rev. Bob Jones and trustees the property now known as the Bob Jones college at that city. The property was purchased at a cost of $1,500,000.

The Florida Bible school, the Northwestern Bible school, and others will be stressed in the areas where these schools are located. Special programs will be given at some of the churches. An offering will be taken and used to help some worthy student in one of the institutions of learning.

The Rev. Mrs. Dixie Chambers is a graduate of the Bible Training School now located at Sevierville.

Some House!

How a misused word can change the entire meaning of a sentence or paragraph is illustrated by the following story for which we are indebted to R. S. Eckles, Black Mountain realtor, who heard it from Jerry Repass.

It seems that the latter's father knew a man in South Carolina named Billy Williamson who had never been to school in his life but who had made a lot of money blockading cotton to the British during the Civil war and who was prone to use the longest or biggest words he heard.

One day while driving through the rural district the elder Repass saw Billy hanging over a rail fence in front of a knoll upon which quite a respectable building was under construction.

After the usual salutation the visitor said to Billy: "Looks as if you are building a pretty fine house on that knoll."

"Yes, suh," Billy replied, "Brother Repass, 'ah's building a ferdando all around it, and a portorico up above it, and a revenue up to it. And pretty soon ah'll be able to entertain mah friends in a hostile manner."

Prices Increase On Many Items

RALEIGH, Nov. 13—Prices received by North Carolina farmers for wheat and oats in October averaged $2.28 and $1.08, respectively, with wheat being up three cents and oats five cents per bushel.

In releasing the monthly price estimates, the State Agriculture department said that corn declined eight cents per bushel from September 15 to October 15, averaging $1.95 per bushel on the latter date. Barley brought $1.70 per bushel and rye $2.45.

Chickens continued in good demand, bringing around 33 cents per pound, 3.4 cents more than in September. Eggs averaged 58.5 cents per dozen, up 6.5 cents over a month earlier.

US Savings Bonds Called World's Best Investment

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 12—Stating that U. S. savings bonds are still the safest investment in the world, William H. Neal, president of the North Carolina Bankers association, today urged the public to buy bonds during the special period of November 11 to December 7, and pledged the full support of the banks to the campaign.

"Savings Bonds are the same safe and sound investment that the war bonds were," Neal said. "They provide a means of investing surplus money today to buy the things we shall need in years to come and cannot buy today. Every three dollars grows to four in ten years, and these bonds are not subject to market fluctuations.

"Beginning Armistice Day, November 11, and extending through the Anniversary of Pearl Harbor, December 7, the treasury department will conduct an intensive nationwide effort to promote the sale of Series E bonds. As during the war, the bonds may be purchased outright or through payroll deductions. The banks of North Carolina, which sold tremendous amounts of war bonds, have pledged their cooperation and facilities in the treasury department's peacetime program to sell saving bonds.

"Every dollar we put in saving bonds helps to hold down inflation and aids the government in managing the public debt created by the war to maintain our freedom. North Carolinians responded magnificently to the appeal of the war bond drives, and I am confident they will respond to this peacetime request of our government."

We're Blowing Your Horn!

How? By telling the rest of the nation... over and over again... to "Look Ahead—Look South" for industrial opportunities.

Month after month... year after year... we're putting out hard-earned cash to buy millions of pages of advertising in nationally-circulated publications. So that we can "sound off" about the fast-growing Southland. So that we can place persuasive facts before the nation's industrialists, businessmen, and financiers.

"Letting people know" is paying off, too. Just look at the many busy new factories throughout the South. And more are on the way!

We're blowing your horn. Sure! But we know it's our horn, too. Because the Southern Railway is part and parcel of the South. Because we also benefit when we help the territory we serve to grow and prosper.
