Mrs. Peacock's husband, Capt. Peacock, who is a chaplain in Japan, expects to be home in February.

Advice Given On Penicillin

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 23—Farmers who have read about the wonders of penicillin, and the benefits of udder infusion treatment for mastitis, may do much more harm than good by trying to "doctor" their own herds, says a warning issued by Dr. William Moore of the State Department of Agriculture.

One danger he cited is the fact that penicillin must be used in just the proper dosage. If the infected udders are "under-dosed," the germs will build up a resistance to penicillin, and the drug will prove worthless for present or future use on those particular cows. Further, udder tissues are so delicate that they can be seriously damaged by improper infusion methods—and the mastitis can be made actually worse instead of better.

"Penicillin is a valuable ally against mastitis," he said, "but it must be used properly."

Vastly Improve Eastern Farm

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 22—Vast improvements to the state department of agriculture's 2,000-acre tidewater test farm near Plymouth have been reported by J. L. Rea, Jr., assistant director in charge of this station.

The farm, established two years ago, is almost equal to the combined acreage of all the other eight farms.

Two brick houses have been built, and three other houses have been rebuilt, remodeled, and painted. Two water systems have been installed, with the water coming from two deep wells which have been dug.

Three large concrete block buildings, for sheep, implements, and for the storage of fertilizer, have been constructed, and a large hay barn has been rebuilt.

Rea said that the main drainage canal for the farm has been dynamited and cleared, and all ditches on that portion of the farm devoted to research in agronomy have been cleaned, with use of tile bridging. In addition, 11,000 feet of ditches has been dug, 6,000 feet being tiled.

Eight acres of land have been cleared for the sheep experiment, several miles of fencing has been put up, and four poultry houses have been built.

—Fred L. Wilson is home for the holidays with his family.

Mrs. R. Bryson, Daughters Leave For Germany

Mrs. Richard Bryson, daughter of Mrs. J. L. Burnett, and her daughters, June and Sandra, left Black Mountain Sunday for Fort Hamilton, N. Y., on the first lap of their journey to Germany where they will join Captain Bryson. A seven room modern stone house is ready for their occupancy upon arrival there. They plan to make their home in that country for at least two years.

Captain Bryson, son of Mrs. C. W. Bryson of Arden, and formerly of Asheville, entered the service in 1940 and was a member of the 150th engineers. Last June, from a group of 2500 officers, he was elected to attend school at Carlisle, Pennsylvania, to study city government. Now stationed at Deggen-dorf, Germany, he is connected with the administration of that city's government.

Major Norman Shuford, formerly superintendent of schools in Black Mountain, also attended the Pennsylvania school, and expected to be stationed in Germany. Instead he was sent to Japan, where Mrs. Shuford expects to join him soon.

PAY YOUR CITY AND COUNTY TAXES NOW

Unpaid Taxes Will Be Delinquent After February 1st

Give yourself and family a paid tax bill for New Years.

Because, first—if paid before January 1st you may deduct local taxes on your Federal and State income tax returns.

Second—by law, you are charged heavy penalties and interest if your taxes become delinquent.

Third—when you pay a tax bill you are not contributing to the threat of inflation.

You will be happier and face a more prosperous New Year if you pay your city and county taxes now.
