DRUNKS LEARN BLACK MTN. IS UNHEALTHY SPOT

Drunks and violators of traffic laws are finding Black Mountain an unhealthy place to ply their "trade" it was learned recently when the total fines collected by the Mayor's court for July and the first few days of August were released. In addition to four 30-day sentences meted out to those who appeared in court too often, fines totaling $586.00 were assessed and collected during July.

After a fast start during the first of August when $143.25 was collected and assessed, the "customers" found that the court meant business and arrests dropped off sharply.

"The Holy City" Will Be Presented At Montreat

The beautiful oratorio, "The Holy City," by A. R. Gaul, will be presented at the Anderson Auditorium in Montreat on Tuesday evening, August 26, at 8:45 P. M. This stirring work is under the direction of Robert S. Lowrance, Jr., director of music for the last month of the conference season at Montreat. Mrs. Lowrance will be at the organ. Mr. and Mrs. Lowrance are ministers of music and organist at the Druid Hills Presbyterian Church in Atlanta. Outstanding soloists have been secured for the performances, and they will be assisted by the regular conference choir supplemented by a volunteer chorus from Montreat. The soloist will be: Betty Turner Boone, soprano; Cheerie Smith, contralto; Ellis Williams, tenor; and Robert Lowrance, baritone, all from Atlanta. Members of the conference choir are: sopranos, Betty Bonner, Carrollton, Ga., Anne Cochran, Atlanta, and Ashley Jones, Savannah; contraltos, Mary Hancock, Decatur, Ga., and Marjie Johnson, Birmingham; tenors, Williams Douglas, Birmingham, and Major Roy W. Haynes, Stanton, Va.; and basses, Ray Elgin, Leeds, Ala., and John Ramsaur, Lincoln, N. C.

"The Holy City" is one of the most tuneful and singable of all the oratorios with an instant appeal to both singers and listeners. The heavenly effect of the angelic choir are beyond description, and the dramatic amen chorus is an effective climax to this lovely work. With the exception of two hymns, a verse from Milton, and three verses from the Te Deum, the words are entirely scriptural. There will be no admission and you are cordially invited to come and bring your friends.

Council Adopts Budget, Sets Tax Rate

The council adopted a budget and set the tax in a special meeting at the city hall Tuesday night. Albert H. Blake, C. P. A. of Asheville and town auditor, compiled the budget.

Figures as adopted by the city fathers show that the total expenses for the fiscal year will amount to $40,770.96. This will be met by a tax rate of $1.75 per hundred, six cents of which will go toward the upkeep of the public library.

"By living within the budget and paying as you go, you should manage to keep out of debt this year," the auditor told the mayor and board. "Pay every bill at the end of each month so that there will be no outstanding debts," he advised.

As the library tax should produce at least $50.00 per month, the board decided to mail a check for that amount to the library head at the beginning of each month. For the first time in history the park department spent less than the budget called for.

The aldermen and mayor praised the work of J. G. Woodard, recent addition to the Black Mountain police department, and announced that a motor grader will go over all the city streets at regular intervals during the winter and summer. Although larger bulbs have been added to the lights along State street, the city is still waiting for the delivery and installation of additional lights which were ordered at the conclusion of a survey made by Mayor Potter and William Holcombe, local representative of the Carolina Power and Light company.

X-Ray Survey Will Be Held Sept. 11-12-13

The Mass x-Ray survey for tuberculosis will begin in Buncombe county on August 26 when 4 mobile X-Ray buses come in from the Tuberculosis Control division of the North Carolina Board of health.

One bus will be located in Black Mountain for three days, September 11, 12, and 13 from 11:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. The bus will be somewhere near the Stop light.

Two of the buses will tour the county while the other two will be in Asheville. The buses will be in Buncombe County approximately two months during which time a free chest x-ray will be available to every person fifteen years of age and over.

Buncombe County is the eighth of the one hundred North Carolina Counties to have the opportunity to participate in this unprecedented case-finding program. The future goal is to get a chest x-ray of every adult in the state of North Carolina. This service is made possible by the state board of health in cooperation with the Buncombe county and Asheville health departments, the United States Public Health service, and the Buncombe County Tuberculosis and Health association.

MONTREAT CLUB

Presented Plaque Commemorating 29 Years Of Outstanding Service At Annual Banquet Friday Evening

ENTERING 30th YEAR

Dr. Weatherford Points Out Highlights Of Career

What Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sanders have meant to Blue Ridge, to the Y. M. C. A., and to the community was the theme at the annual banquet of the Southern area YMCA summer school held Friday evening at Blue Ridge. Attending were secretaries of the YMCA, guests, and officers. Hugh Robinson, state YMCA secretary of Atlanta, Georgia, served as toastmaster. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders have served at Blue Ridge for 29 years.

Others on the program included Dr. C. R. Comfort of Louisville, who pronounced the invocation, Frank Dillion, chairman of the summer school and general secretary of the YMCA at Louisville, who introduced the guests, Mrs. Ruby Taylor Sanders of Murfreesboro, Tennessee, who directed the string ensemble, and T. P. Pearson, chairman of the World Youth Fund of the Southern area, who made the address of the evening.

The high point of the evening came when Dr. W. D. Weatherford made the speech of appreciation and presented Mr. and Mrs. Sanders with a plaque to commemorate the occasion. Telling of the first time he had the pleasure of meeting the Sanders, Dr. Weatherford spoke of the courage of Mr. Sanders in the face of discouragement during the years, of his friendliness and interest in young people, and of his fine sense of humor. He told of Mrs. Sanders' beauty, of her voice and experience in music that has added so much to the community of Blue Ridge.

Dr. Weatherford said in part: "During the First World War, I was conducting a series of training schools for the secretaries who were to be workers in the Army and Navy camps. In the course of these eighteen schools of about 150 men each, there arose a need for a trained cashier and bookkeeper. Dr. W. W. Alexander, the personnel director of the Southeastern Military Region of the Y. M. C. A., said he had just the man, whom he sent to Blue Ridge. "When Mr. Sanders appeared, he was very thin and spare-looking as if he weighed less than 100 pounds. His wife was his redeeming feature. She was a charming, cultured young woman—a well-trained musician who ever since has been one of Blue Ridge's loyal supporters and helpers.

"Soon everyone came to recognize that this thin little man was not little in capacity for friendliness. He always had a flow of good humor and good jokes. He could tell an old joke so well that you almost thought it was new. "He was also past master at knowing people and calling them by name. He so easily formed acquaintances that someone said of him that he would not be in the presence of the desert Sahara for thirty minutes before he called it Sally.

"Another quality which made him invaluable to me and to Blue Ridge was his scrupulous honesty. As a man handling the cost of two going institutions, Blue Ridge and the Y. M. C. A. Graduate School, which held its summer quarter at Blue Ridge, there was necessity for rigid care that there was no mixing of accounts. I told Herbert that some day someone would raise the question as to whether the accounts of these two institutions were not confused or juggled. Sure enough, Mr. R. H. King, the regional secretary of the YMCA, raised this exact question. I invited him to bring a committee to study the books of the two institutions. They could not find a single instance of mixing of accounts, although there was constant ex-
