BLUE RIDGE . . .

Blue Ridge Assembly, owned and operated by the Y.M.C.A.s of the South, is starting its 36th year as a training center for religious, educational, and social leaders. Shown here is Lee hall, the central building for meetings and conferences throughout the summer. Non-sectarian in its programs, members of all faiths are welcomed. Blue Ridge accommodates individuals and families as well as organized groups. The programs are designed to attract all ages. Located on a 1600-acre tract in the beautiful Blue Ridge mountains, the assembly has an elevation of from 2700 to 4500 feet and is valued at more than $1,000,000.

TAYLOR CALLS FOR

community to build a school building. I believe that the state should use part of the present surplus to help encourage local communities in building school plants. I favor, too, the reduction of the teacher load from 35 to 30 pupils. I realize that to accomplish this we must have more teachers and more classrooms.

"There were three children born in the state in 1947 for every two born in 1939," he continued, "and within 10 years our school enrollment will have increased by 50 per cent."

The Buncombe county legislator is a member of one of the advisory committees appointed by the state education commission to study and recommend changes in the state school system.

On the road front Mr. Taylor maintains that the school bus routes, mail routes, and farm-to-market roads must be kept open the year around. "We have 10,000 miles of paved or surfaced roads and 48,000 miles of secondary roads. We are making almost no progress on improving the latter," he observed. "We must launch an extended program for surfacing a great number of these roads. If a state bond issue is necessary to finance such a program, the people of the state should be permitted to vote on the issue. I favor, too, the state giving the cities and towns $2,000,000 rather than $1,000,000 out of the gas tax fund for building and repairing city streets."

Although he supported the good health program, the young legislator believes that it does not provide properly for the school health needs. Rather he sees a more beneficial program as one in which the school child would have his defects, such as bad tonsils, bad teeth, and bad eyes corrected through a well financed program which provides for frequent examination of school children followed by treatment in clinics. And this treatment should be at the expense of the state in cases where the parents are not in a position to bear the expense. Such a bill was introduced at the last session but did not get through.

Mr. Taylor is in favor of legislation that will provide more fully for the disabled or unfortunate veteran or for the members of his family. "I favor legislation that protects seniority and retirement rights of the veteran so as to make sure that he is not punished for leaving his job and going into the service of his country."

Of local legislation the democratic candidate was opposed to the bill which separated the City of Asheville from the rest of Buncombe county for the purpose of a vote on ABC store.

"Everyone should vote in the coming primary and election," the former Black Mountain school teacher asserts. "In contrast to Italy where 94 per cent of the eligible voted in the last general election, our records show that less than 50 per cent of the eligibles vote here. All free American citizens should go to the polls and vote. By not voting, a citizen is contributing to bad government."

There are four candidates for the three positions. In addition to Mr. Taylor they are Henry Fisher, Asheville attorney, incumbent, J. E. Divilbiss, Jr., Asheville business man, and Leslie H. McDaniel of Oteen.

Marrett Wins For Presbyterians With Home Run

Lee Marrett's long home run that scored Styles and Tyson ahead of him broke the camel's back and gave the Presbyterians a 4 to 3 decision over the fighting Methodists in a league softball game Monday night. In the opener Friendship Chapel blasted the Baptists, 13-11, on six hits.

The victory by the Presbyterians was more than a storybook finish. After they had gone into the seventh leading, the winners lost sight of victory when Dempsey Whitaker slipped to the plate for the Methodists and blasted one of Style's pitches out of the lot with Nordhielm on base. But the lead faded when Styles and Tyson singled and Lee Marrett stepped up and whacked one out of sight.

The Chapel's win over the Baptists proved among other things that the Friendship boys can score more runs on fewer hits than any team in the league. They solved the offerings of Pug Morgan for only six hits but made them count for 13 runs.
