LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

April 10, 1951

Editor, Black Mountain News.

Sir: Don't you think the new sign for Black Mountain on the highway is a bit misleading? In my travels through Western North Carolina I have seen several signs calling attention to certain mountains and I feel sure that visitors driving through will look for the mountain which is so announced. The 2400 feet altitude would not impress them either when they have already seen those of five and six thousand feet. It would appear that the sign in question should read "Town of Black Mountain" in order to have the desired effect.

Yours,
L. A. Oates.
