MOUNTAIN VIEWS

By Oden Walker

Mrs. Ollie Walker is very ill. Mrs. N. L. Perkins of Dreams' and Mrs. Mary Aleshire of Knoll visited Oden and Minnie Walker last Monday afternoon.

Mrs. James P. Kinard of Rock Hill, S. C., spent last week at her home on North Fork doing some housework on her grounds. Mrs. Kinard tells us that Dr. Kinard is very feeble, and is staying at the nursing home. Mrs. Kinard's daughter, Mrs. Joseph Wiseman, her son, Michael, and Mrs. Kinard's granddaughter, Miss Lillian Lee Smith, brought her up to Rock Hill and spent Sunday at Wickersham. Mrs. Wiseman recently returned from Italy where she has been studying voice music. Mr. Wiseman, an actor, completed an important role in a motion picture, and is soon to start work on another one in Paso, Texas. Joseph says he is not like motion picture work as well as he does the stage. Lane Morris is razing the old barn on his farm, which he intends to replace with a new one, and so is another old building to give way to progress. We'd better remember a little about this barn — and around it, we spent those halcyon days we remember as childhood. In the middle hallway was a swing where we got so sick swinging that we thought we would die, and our buggy mare was hung in the swing and we had to cut it down to get her out, this same hallway an angry bull was goring the daylight out of one of our sisters, until we led the bull with a pitchfork and he changed his mind. From the barn we would haul horse manure in spring and bring back loads of sweet-smelling hay in midsummer. In the barnyard would have husking bees in autumn that sometimes lasted for several days and far into each night. We used to come in late at night from a country square dance, and after putting up our feet, we would climb into the barn and sleep the rest of the night. There is no sound that gives us contentment like horses and cattle munching their roughage in the night. It would be easy to write a book about this, but owing to the paper shortage we refrain at this time, but this barn is enshrined in our memories as the symbol of the Golden Age.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Williams moved into Thad Burnett's new house.

We hate to retract so much of what we write, but on account of drastic upheavals in the cast, it seems that our play will not be given at this time, but it will be presented in due time.

Oden and Minnie Walker, and Mrs. Propst visited Mrs. N. L. Perkins Saturday afternoon. Clara is going to stay with Mrs. Perkins when school is out. We will see her on North Fork, but we are glad she is going to be with Mrs. Perkins.

We have a new and beautiful rooster, which we have named Arthur, but will call him Mac for short.

Thad Burnett is in on a furlough, and will go back to service in a few days. Mack's charming wife is a very happy person, Mack says he has no swamp or flat country can take the place of our friend's mountains.

A cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Barlow (Vern's old home) this Thursday night.

Mr. William Brown has been spending some time in New Jersey, but is expected home this week. Visitors at Mountain View church services last Sunday morning were: Mr. G. H. Smart and his wife, Mrs. J. T. Singleton of Rock Mountain, and Zeb Pressley of the family of Grovemont. We are also glad to have "Uncle" Cordell, who seldom gets home to church.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson of Rock Hill, Fla., had a short visit with Oden and Minnie Walker last evening. The Johnsons are staying for a short time at their home on the Toll road.

Rev. Dan Walker of Crook County visited on North Fork last week.
