

Sunday School Lesson — The Men's Bible class at Raleigh's Edenton Street Methodist church, at one time taught by Senator Clyde R. Hoey and reputed to be the largest Men's Bible class in the state, has been using class mem-bers as teachers in the absence of regular teacher Wanter Ander-son, director of SBI. Anderson has been absent on an evangelistic tour of the state prison camps. Filling in with class members as teachers brought about an unusual situation the other Sunday. Called on to teach the lesson was class member Fred Dodge, assistant director and public relations man for the N. C. Division of the U. S. Brewers Foundation!

Dodge, no overbearing person, is chairman of the class publicity committee, edits the class monthly paper, sings in the class choir, and recently received a Bible with his name on it for maintaining a high average attendance. The only Sunday school classes he misses are those on Sundays when he is required to be out of town fighting for legal control of beer and against prohibition—with a capital "P"—in towns and counties -in towns and counties over the state.

Walter Anderson, the regular teacher, is former police chief of Winston-Salem and Charlotte, is a vice-president of the Allied Church League for the abolition of beverage alcohol.

From all this, we can assume that the Men's Bible class of Edenton Street Methodist church has heard both sides of the liquor question.

Just Beginning — Consensus here is that the fire on educa-tional equality for Negroes is just - Consensus moving from the ember stage and may soon burn brightly. It is fine to burn off a newground, so long as you don't let the blaze get out of hand. The same zealots who have fanned the racial equality fire for political advantage the past three years are now at-tempting vainly to prevent its getting higher. Watch for new and more startling developments within the next few days.

Incidentally, there are now over scriptions for magazines.

8,000 Negro teachers in North Carolina drawing the best salaries ever paid members of this race in the South. They are paid on exactly the same scale as white teachers.

Big Crowd? — The Raleigh News and Observer had this to say one dull day last week in nonchalantly commenting on the forthcoming gubernatorial race: "The way things are shaping up now, the most wide open race since 1940 is in prospect for next year. There very easily could be half a dozen or more candidates in the running, each with some points in his favor and none with certainty of victory ahead."

It does look as if the Raleigh daily is trying desperately to dig up some opposition for Expected Candidates Capus Waynick and William B. Umstead. However, the only sure thing now about next year's governor's race is that Kerr Scott will not be among those running.

No Soap — The name of Cong-ressman Thurmond Chatham was mentioned lightly by the Raleigh paper, which should know better. Chatham, now regarded as one of the ablest Congressmen in Washington, and his beautiful young wife are building a fine home out from the National Capital; and Thurmond only a few days ago "As long as the citizens of the Fifth District want me to represent them, I have no desire or intention of seeking any other political office."

Important Decision - North Carolina communities last week awoke to the heartwarming realization that the U.S. Supreme Court had at last fashioned for them a weapon to employ in their oft-expressed opposition to houseto-house peddling, hawking, and uninvited nocturnal knocking on doors of private homes.

The high court of the land said that the town of Alexandria, La., was within its rights several months ago when it arrested Jack H. Breard, representative of Keystone Readers Service, for going from door-to-door soliciting sub-

And sit there and listen to the strange, exciting tales misdemeanor, and he was sent-enced to pay a fine of $25 or serve enced to pay a fine of $25 or serve 30 days in the lockup. An appeal was taken (the whole thing was planned as a test case by the company), but each succeeding court upheld the decision. On June 4, the U. S. Supreme Court held that Alexandria was within its that Alexandria was within its rights in enforcing an ordinance designed to protect the privacy of its citizens.

The Law — By a vote of six to three (Southerners Vinson and Black and Westerner Douglas dissented), the court stood by the following ordinance enacted by the

Alexandria City Council:
"Section 1. Be it ordained by the council of the city of Alexandria, La., in legal session convened that the practice of going in and upon private residences in the City of Alexandria, La., by solicitors, peddlers, hawkers, itinerant merchants or transient vendors of merchandise not having been requested or invited so to do by the owner or owners, occupant or occupants of said occupant private residences for the purpose of soliciting orders for the sale of goods, wares, and merchandise and or disposing of and or peddl-ing or hawking the same is declared to be a nuisance and pun-ishable as such nuisance as a mis-demeanor." demeanor.

Alexandria has a section in its law which makes it inapplicable to the sale or soliciting of orders for the sale of milk, vegetables, poultry, eggs, and other farm and garden produce.

George Frank-Follow Suit lin, attorney for the ever-alert N. C. League of Municipalities, is receiving inquiries from several sections of the state on the ord-inance. He will move when he is sure of the legal implications. Enactment and enforcement of these ordinances throughout the nation will play hob with hundreds of which have grown rich through house-to-house selling.
