

RIDGECREST
... ramblings

Business Manager Willard K. Weeks was in Atlanta and La Grange, Ga., Wednesday and Thursday on business for the assembly. He conducted prayer service at the First Baptist church, Atlanta, Wednesday evening.

The snow Monday morning was a shining surprise to Ridgecrest people. Three inches fell from ten to one o'clock. Instead of "pretty snow flakes" it came down in "snow balls" that splashed when they landed on the ground. So unusually large were they that comment was heard on their size by many. To look upwards into the onslaught of the falling snow was a delight as the flakes and "balls" came tumbling down.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Biddix spent the week end in Thomasville visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Black, and other relatives and friends.

Alice Turner staged a television party for Lavinia Hollifield and Joyce Belcher while they were at home during spring holidays and before they returned to Mars Hill Tuesday.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard K. Weeks Friday of last week were Professor and Mrs. Paul Minault and daughters, Gail and Dee Dee, of Pottstown, Pa., who were on their way to St. Petersburg, Fla., for a vacation at their beach cottage in that city. Prof. Minault, formerly of Paris, teaches French at Hill school in Pottstown.

The March meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society was held with Mrs. Hight C Moore last week of "Moorehaven." The president, Mrs. W. M. Pate, presided over the business session. Mrs. Charles Jollay, program chairman, presided over the program, which was presented by Miss Rowena Williams. Others taking part were Mrs. Moore and Mrs. W. L. Hatcher.

Willard K. Weeks spoke at the Old Fort Baptist church Sunday night and showed pictures of young people's conferences at the assembly.
