School teachers who are World War II veterans and who plan to spend the summer studying for a degree under the GI Bill will need a supporting statement from a responsible official of their school, stating they have been regularly employed at teaching during the 1951-52 school year, veterans Administration said.

The statement, which should show the beginning and ending dates of employment, must be presented to the school at the time the teacher-veteran enters his course. The school, in turn, will forward it on to VA along with the teacher-veteran's re-enrollment papers.

Such teachers must attend summer sessions of not less than five weeks in length, and the course must lead to an academic degree, VA emphasized.

VA said its rules apply to teachers studying under the GI Bill after the cut-off date which, for most veterans, was July 25, 1951. Such veteran-school teachers are permitted to study for a degree during succeeding summer terms, so long as they are regularly employed as teachers the rest of the year, and so long as they do not skip any summer sessions. VA also had a reminder for veterans finishing school this spring, who plan to get jobs as teachers this coming fall. In order to train for a degree during succeeding summers under the GI Bill, they must be enrolled in their courses during the summer of 1952, VA said.

Q—I am a disabled World War I veteran. If I get VA's approval, may I still start vocational training under Public Law 16, or did the cut-off date of last July end my chances for taking the training?

A—If you meet all requirements, you still may begin training under Public Law 16. Under the law, you may start at any time, so long as you can finish by the program's wind-up on July 25, 1956. The July 25, 1951 cut-off date applied only to training under the GI Bill, and not under Public Law 16.

Q—My wife and I are both World II veterans. We want to open a dress shop with the help of a GI business loan. May we both use our loan guarantee privileges together?

A—Yes. However, your total combined guarantee may not exceed 50 per cent of the loan.

Swannanoa Has Exhibit Of Art

Charcoal, water colors, crayons, pencils, and tempera paints were used in an art exhibit at Swannanoa High on Tuesday, May 31. The exhibit was sponsored by the Student Council. Students from eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades made entries.

Blue and red ribbons for charcoals were won by Sonia Burleson. Water color prizes were both won by David Young. First and second prizes for work in crayons went to Annie Louise Morgan. The blue ribbon for entries done with tempera paints was won by Clara Nix, and the red ribbon by Sue Anderson. Paul Maney took both ribbons in the pencil drawings section. A frieze portraying five stages in the history of North Carolina was done by one section of the eighth grade. The blue ribbon winners in this section were Daniel Wilson and Carolyn Spivey, and the red ribbon by Delilah Andrews and Paul Maney.
