Asheboro. She had been in Washington for quite awhile, first with Burlington Mills in a secretarial capacity, and later with Armistead Sapp, counsel for our Alien Property committee. We feel that we have secured an affable young lady who knows enough about Washington to be of great assistance to those who come to the office. Miss Covington had the endorsement of many Democrats of her own home section of Randolph county.

Senate Rules

We had quite a battle at the beginning of the session about the rules. Some of the radical element contended that the senate didn't have any rules because, they said, the old rules died with the expiration of the last session of congress.

That was contended in face of the fact that there is always a carry-over of two-thirds of the senate, and also, in face of the fact that the Senate had been recognized as a continuing body, different from the house whose members are elected every two years.

Senator Russell of Georgia led the fight against changing the rules. Leading the opposing forces was Senator Anderson of New Mexico, who was aided by Senators Humphrey, Lehman and others. Senator Taft, the majority leader, and many other leading Republicans agreed with Senator Russell that the senate was a continuing body and the attack of the more radical element was beaten back decisively.

I believe that most people of North Carolina quite agree with the result. And, we have found that there are many other people from all parts of the country who resent the continual attacks being made on the South by certain elements in the senate.

Filibuster

The effort to change the senate rules was aimed, of course, at the suspicion that southern senators might engage in a filibuster. The truth of the matter is that there have been many filibusters besides those conducted by southerners, although the senators who are enemies of the South seem always to stress the southern filibuster.

It would have been ludicrous, had it not been so serious, to read the list of those who were making the attack on the rules and then look at the list of senators who took up most of the time of the senate in the last session with their seemingly never ending speeches.

The men who did the most talking and took up the most time in the senate last year were generally the same men who were attacking the rights of the southern senators to express themselves in an unlimited manner.

I had one very vicious letter from a woman who had recently moved to North Carolina in which she berated all of those not agreeing with the attackers of the rule. She, like a good many advocates of limitations today, forgets the fact that the lack of such limitations was in the minds of the founders of our government who realized that minorities did have some rights and should be ever protected in the freedom of speech which might lead to the defense of those rights.

Insect damage, in North Carolina totals last $50 million each year.

BE SURE OF TOP PERFORMANCE FROM LAMPS AND APPLIANCES

Too small wires, like too small pipes, cannot supply enough pressure at outlets. If your lights dim when the refrigerator starts, if your toaster is slow to heat, you probably need more circuits of larger size wire.
