THE HOSPITAL — A SANCTUARY OF LOVE

Patience
"Love suffereth long..." Somewhere, today, there is one confined to the hospital because of illness. Perhaps the person has been there over a long period of time. Back home there are loved ones waiting for the return of the sick person. Each waits patiently for the other. This is made possible because God made them one in marriage and sealed their betrothal with love. Because of the love between two or more persons, yet they suffer, it is possible the love provided by God for the two to wait patiently until the renewal of health has been accomplished. With God's help man can, yet he suffers, wait on the Lord daily and soon be back with those who are near and dear to him.

Kindness
"And is kind" is not something like a flower that is born to blush unfeeling, and waste its sweetness on the desert air, but is that something that is beautiful at all seasons. It is the rosebuds of self transplanted into the heart of another bedside table of the sick and well alike. Kindness appears in all colors, shapes and forms but is always wrapped in devotion and tied with the strings of the heart.

Generosity
"Love envieth not" the world is generous to those who are sick and disabled. Those who have spent untold hours in research seeking better means for combating sickness did not do so because they were seeking gain for self but rather all was prefaced with love. Those who labor in hallowed sanctuaries of healing do so because they have followed the teaching of Jesus. Theirs is a display of unselfishness and love. No, love never covets means for the end because of material wealth but rather because the heart sings louder when the means is pushed by love to someday realize the end—the coronation of love.

Courtesy
"Doth not behave itself unseemly" When love comes our way while in a hospital, or in life, we should be courteous. A word of appreciation, for flowers, thoughtful letters from friends, the change of bed sheets, a clean floor, etc., these and many more are the outward evidences of the inward courtesy of the heart.

Unselfishness
"Seeketh not her own" there is no better place to display unselfishness than in a hospital. Love never displays selfishness but always thinks of others. When you turn the radio low so as not to disturb others you are showing a knowledge of unselfishness. When you do not ask for special privileges when there are many more who would like the same request granted, you recognize the needs of all. When your lights are turned off at the proper time you are enabling others to get their necessary rest. Respect for others is one of the great facets in the gem of love.

Good Temper
"Is not easily provoked" do not think harsh towards one who cries in pain. If they were not in pain they would not cry out. Rather ask God to help and if possible relieve the pain of the suffering one. Remember those who cry out are going through deep waters of suffering. There may be times when you do not get things just at the right time, remember, those who minister to your needs do not delay because they so desire, but often circumstances prevail beyond their control. Too, love never hesitates but is always seeking the good of the sick. Love never faileth. Good temper controls the pulse of love and regulates the mind in her thoughts when in prayer with God. If the heart and mind are in a state of calmness one is able to talk over problems with God in a clearer, closer relationship.

Guileless
"Thinketh no evil" if you have had an accident or sickness, please do not blame God for your troubles. There are many things that happen to us in life which one is unable to explain. Do not accuse another person for what has happened to you. Few people know the circumstances that are involved at specific times. Recognize that God is one of Love and is anxious to help in time of deep trouble. He may or may not grant our every request in the way we want it, yet, He will give us the strength to carry on. All people who have a positive outlook in life, sick or well, will accomplish the creative in life. Some of the most successful lives known to man have been those who carried a heavy burden with them through life. The invitation given by the Master years ago still holds true: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls." No greater assurance can He give to us than these words when we are lacerated with pain of body and mind.

Sincerity
"Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth" Love is always sincere. Those ministering to the sick labor in the spirit of Love. Every desire on their part is that each and everyone should recover as soon as possible. Their speech, actions, and thoughts ring with sincerity. Sincerity is often the balm of consolation when symptoms are related one to another. Those who seek the restoration of health are sincerely glad that God has revealed so much knowledge for them to use. While at the same time they sincerely seek new knowledge from God asking that they may be used as the mediators for dispensing of new grace and knowledge. They witness as to the truth of love.

"Who walks with Love has no need of fear; Patience, kindness, and courtesy keep pace with him; Invisible hands, from above, restore the ruined body, And Time, in the hands of His mediators, work side by side."

But the Greatest of These
"There's love in the hand that smoothes the sheet,
There's love in the heart of all volunteers you meet.
There's love in the face of the Nurse that smiles,
There's love in the heart that lingers at the bedside awhile.
There's love in the 'lab' as eyes seek in defiance,
There's love in the Surgeon's Hand—God's Holy Science.
There's love in the Chapel where lights are always low,
There's love in God's answer as each of these bestows
New Health — Confidence and Life."

The spiritual basis of man's true independence will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God."
Man's God-given freedom will be brought out in readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following passage:

"Discerning the rights of man, we cannot fail to foresee the doom of all oppression. Slavery is not the legitimate state of man... Citizens of the world, accept the glorious liberty of the children of God, and be free! This is your divine right." (227:14-16, 24-26).
Among the passages to be read from the King James Version of the Bible is the following: "For the Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will save us." (Isaiah 33:22).

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. BEN B. BEAL

Mrs. Ben B. Beal of Davidson, sister of Glenn Stafford of Black Mountain, died June 23 in the Presbyterian hospital in Charlotte. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon in the Presbyterian church at Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. Stafford spent several days of last week in Davidson prior to Mrs. Beal's death. Others from Black Mountain attending the funeral services were Betty Stafford, Mrs. R. V. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stafford and daughter, Reginald Stafford, Mrs. Lawrence Parker, Mrs. Mary Slagle, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stafford who spent Thursday in Davidson, but were unable to attend funeral services.

Well, the panther tale is lashing about again. It looks as if my informant will have to concede that "Ole Feddy" Burnette slayed the animal, and that it measured a little over 11 feet in length. But let us hasten on to another tall story, this one was related to me by "Uncle Jack" Cordell, that accomplished raconteur, it concerns a bear.

It seems that in 1896 or '97 there came a man from the north by the name of Harry McGee. He was a lumberman and in partnership with one Wilkenson who stayed in his cups a lot of the time, and never did amount to much. One thing that impressed Uncle Jack was when these fellows killed a nice fat timber rattlesnake they would dress him into succulent steaks, and have a feast, this didn't mesh with a mountaineer's appetite. These men set up a very good circular sawmill on Right Hand fork, it might interest you to know that Minnie's grandfather, the late John Burnette, and a partner used to cut timber for this outfit for 35 cents per thousand feet, the giant yellow poplars that were cut had many thousands of feet in one tree. A man by the name of Potter contracted the logging, he hauled a great iron wagon here from Mill creek, it was supposed to run on a pole track, hauled to the woods by oxen when loaded it would roll back by gravity. The trouble was that they never got enough oxen to pull it to the timber, it is still sitting up there on Right Hand fork. I looked it over when I was a watershed warden. But this was to be a bear tale.

Harry McGee had a deep yearning to kill a bear. When he had finished building the rough house where the men were to live while the job was in progress (that is all finished except hanging the doors) he took his entire crew to the wilds of Toe river. He selected the best "stand" for himself, and told the men that anyone of them responsible for him getting a fatal shot at a bear would receive $5.00, a large sum of money in those days.

This was the most unsuccessful hunt in history, the men literally wore themselves out on the rough ridges of Toe river trying to get a bear up for Mr. McGee, but of no avail. In mid-afternoon there came up a heavy shower, the tired and bedraggled hunters wended their way homeward. They followed down the Bear Wallow ridge. After they crossed the top of Grey-heard, the exhausted men came into the upper end of a logging road that led down to Mr. McGee's recently built house. They saw at once that a large bear had just preceded them, the mountain soil was still crumpling on the edges of the great tracks. The trail led merrily down the logging road, right up to Harry's back door, and out the front door, on across the creek, and away up Dry branch, but before Bruin went his gleeful way he paused a few minutes in the middle of Mr. McGee's new living room and left what we mountaineers refer to as "bear sign." To me this seems to be the Perfect Squelch for a bear hunter.

Our granddaughters, Toni and Cindy Edwards, spent last Saturday night with us.
We offer the most heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family of Mrs. Mallie Burnette Carver.
We were so glad to hear of the things that Raymond Smith is doing since he left Black Mountain in last week's News. Raymond and his family used to be regular attendants at our church, and he was one of our most beloved "Woodpeckers," a skilled craftsman. It is interesting to note that the Smiths are living in Martinsburg, W. Va., a place that has many poignant memories for me.
There was an impressive ordination service at Mountain View church Sunday night. Those ordained as deacons were: I. T. Brooks, Earl Jolly, Charlie Burnette, and Sam Byrd. Those assisting the Rev. Eugene Byrd and the Rev. Fred Byrd in this service were: Ronald Finch, Ben Morris, Thad Burnette, Bob Miller, and Ransie Williams. We are looking forward to a year of real progress for the first time in the history of the church we have gone on a budget. We have a full slate of deeply spiritual and capable officers and teachers—things are looking brighter for North Fork than in many a day.
Fred Byrd Jr., recently of New England has accepted a position in this state, and is soon to move here.
Although it is very hot I am still getting along fine at the Beacon—I work from one job to another. Recently I have been running carding machine backs where I can look across into the spinning room, and throw "sheep's eyes" at the ladies, it relieves the monotony.
