... All Is Quiet On Ridgecrest Front
Ridgecrest is now on off-summer schedule. The assembly season is ended. The summer activities are over. A silence has come over this quiet community. We are without outcry, clamor, din, uproar, tumult or excitement.

... The three major daily happenings are morning, noon and night. There is no rush, push nor hurry. The chimes are not heard early in the morning to call us to daily activity, bells do not ring any more, organ music is hushed, pianos are silent, public address systems no longer yell at us, the call to class and conference is not heard hourly, the voices of song leaders and choirs are silenced, the doors are closed, curtains are folded and the shades are down. The tramp, tramp of feet is not heard, streets and buildings are deserted. Laughter in the great dining room and shouts in the kitchen have ceased. There is no hissing of escaping steam about the big eighty gallon steaks cooking pots, no clanging of pots and pans and no rattling of plates, cups and saucers, pie pans, flatware, and dishwashing machines. Brooms and mops are tucked away. The Gift Shop, Book Store and Nibble Nook where bright lights, glitter and glamorous and fascinating reigned during the summer are as spooky as a graveyard on a moonlight night. Oratory has ceased. Praaching, teaching singing, conference work, class room lectures, coaching, hiking, watermelon cutting, handwork, photography, swimming, rowing, basket ball, softball, tennis and other games will have to wait till next June.

Twenty eight thousand six hundred plus registered for the conferences. A record number this was. They came from about thirty three states and ten foreign countries while other thousands came for a day and forgot to leave their names but they carried away many blessings.

Manager Willard K. Weeks and Mrs. Weeks are greatly pleased with every thing. They should take the privilege of slowing down a bit after the big rush. Keeneyed and constantly on the watch, W. M. Pate "a seven days a week on the job man" has "fixed" most of his postseason problems while Mrs. Pate having accomplished a herculean task supervising "operation opening and closing the buildings" and between time filling a responsible position at the Bureau of Information is longing for a few days of complete rest. Mrs. J. Fred Stinson who handles a million pieces of mail, more or less, made room assignments and put about twenty eight thousand to bed comfortably feels like taking a snooze and will be on vacation soon. Four hundred fifty staff workers have returned to their work at home, school, class room and other assignments.

Foremen Joseph Holfield and Walt Allison with crews of carpenters, masons and helpers are directing their skills and talents toward building Camp Crestridge. For Girls and the man who really makes Ridgecrest Assembly shine inside and out, Mr. S. W. McMahan, continues with his assistants to hide much "dirt" with his paint brush. And so everybody now goes whistling along getting ready for 1955.

A strict account of the season's accomplishments must include the activities of the staff of Camp Ridgecrest for Boys with George Pickering at the helm as director. Miss Lizzie Waits as bookkeeper and Mrs. H. L. Wade as dietician planning and serving wholesome meals. Three hundred twenty two boys for five weeks each kept the staff on the ball for ten weeks.

Your correspondent after nineteen summers here bows himself out of the circle at Ridgecrest. Since one cannot turn back the pages of the calendar nor stop the movement of the sun, moon and stars, nor stop the years as they roll along we bow to the inevitable and turn the work over to younger and more capable hands. Only gratitude fills our heart for the years we have enjoyed at Ridgecrest.

Miss Eloise Norton, are spending the week in Petersburg, Va. They are visiting Mrs. Max E. Reagan, daughter of the Nortons, and a little week-old granddaughter, Stephen Lynn, born in Petersburg last week.
