One of the loveliest things about our worship service is the quiet music rendered by our young pianist, Betty Jean Shook, as the offering is being taken. It is our constant and fervent prayer that we shall soon have an electric organ for this talented young lady.

Time was when we used to plan what we would do with the large offering that was usually received at homecoming. How things have changed, last Sunday at homecoming 60 odd dollars were taken in, this Sunday at the morning service over a $100 were in the plates. Of course this was a little above the regular collection, but the church as a whole is progressing in a most gratifying way. If you desire to attend a friendly country church, we cordially invite you to come with us.

Rance Williams built us some sturdy and beautiful stone steps last week, if you are contemplating having some rock work done, we strongly recommend Rance for the job.

Mrs. Julius A. Walker spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Thad Burnette. They took Mama over to see the North Fork dam, she probably ejaculated "Great and marvelous!" when she saw it. She also viewed television for the first time. This is a long way from the faint echo of the guns of the Civil War. If longevity does run in families, I'm liable to be bothering you with columns for a long time. There should be a boom in the toothbrush market. Renee Whitaker has her first tooth.

Visiting Mrs. James P. Kinard this week-end was her son James of New York, and Prof. and Mrs. Eddie Leonard Jr., of Rock Hill. Eddie is professor of music at Winthrop college. Mrs. Kinard is going home with the Leonards where she will speak to the Rock Hill branch of the American Association of University Women about her recent travels in Africa this Thursday night, Mrs. Lavinia Smith of Charlotte will bring Mrs. Kinard home on Saturday.

Mrs. Kinard, James, and Renee Leonard came out to see us Sunday afternoon. James and I done a lot of talking about her boyhood days together. We found that we could still make a hoarse noise by blowing into our folded hands, but James can beat me by whistling through his teeth. He wants us to visit him in New York and promises to take us to all the fine art galleries, and let us soak up enough "long haired" music to last us for many years ("Bye, 'bye we'll tell you about it when we get back"). I wouldn't mind taking a brief glance at one of the hotter night spots.

A group of boys from Barium Springs near Stateville were hiking up the Craggy Dome last Saturday afternoon. One of the boys, 17-year-old Mirton Cox thought to get to the summit before the rest of the party, and forged ahead smartly. The going is pretty rough up the Dome. Mirton must have gotten into a bear trail and veered off to the south side of the mountain. Anyway, he disappeared and the search was on. He was lost all night and came out at the Ernest Walker place on North Fork sometime Sunday with his clothes almost torn off him. He had traversed some of the roughest terrain on this creek.

He said that his "real" got worse and worse and finally played out. He kept going thinking he would soon find the Parkway, but he was on the wrong side of the mountain, night came on and he fell over a cliff, bruised himself in several places, so he wisely bedded down for the night. He made his way down the Little Craggy ridge, having to crawl much of the way. Sometime Sunday he saw a plane circling overhead, and sent up a smoke signal, but of no avail. He came on down Little Left Hand
