QUICK JUMP for JUNIOR!

From baby shoes to basketball is no trick at all for Junior. Up he sprouts and before you know it he's taller than you are. To keep pace with his healthy growth, you provide accordingly.

You've grown pretty fast in other ways around the house. One, in particular, calls for special attention to present and future needs. The odds are 4 to 1 that ELECTRICALLY your home is "too big for its switches."

When your home was built, the original wiring was probably installed to handle lighting and a few electric appliances. But, like Junior, your use of electricity has "jumped" tremendously! NOW the same wiring must handle more than a score of major and minor appliances. Your needs have far outgrown the capacity of the wiring to serve your modern way of life. Such overloaded wires waste your current — cut appliance efficiency — interrupt your service by blowing fuses or tripping circuit-breakers.

To insure your comfort and safety, you can add to your present wiring — modernize it. Why not find out soon if your home has grown "too big for its switches"? Just call your electrical contractor (listed in YELLOW PAGES of phone book), or your nearest CP&L office. No obligation.

CHECK YOUR HOME FOR THESE SIGNS OF INADEQUATE WIRING!

1. Fuses blow frequently — circuit-breakers trip too often.
2. Appliances, like toasters and irons, are slow to heat.
3. Other appliances not operating as well as you know they can.
4. Lights dimming when appliances are operating.
5. TV Picture expands — contracts — or is smaller than screen area.
6. Not enough convenience outlets for lamps AND appliances.
