

Mackey Brown, 1955 Easter Seal Child, and Joe M. Johnson, Asheville barber, discuss the crippled children's project undertaken by barbers of North Carolina. The barbers of the state are helping a campaign and donated a part of their wages on March 8 to the worthy cause. Six-year-old Mackey, a native of Asheville, afflicted with polio when a little over a year old. He has learned to walk again.

MONTREAT

By Miss Julia Stokes
At 10 o'clock the Rev. Stanley Bennett preached on "Evidences of Resurrection." The college choir sang "In Joseph's Lovely Land." Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin, North Carolina state superintendent of education, played "Voluntary" and for the offering a selection on the violin. This was a fine addition to the service, and we appreciate the contribution.
A young people meeting in the Assembly Inn at 8 p.m. Student Christian association held an Easter program in the chapel at 7:15. At 8:15 chamber music of the North Carolina symphony orchestra gave concert in Assembly Inn. Senior high Sunday school held a worship service and fast on the top of Lookout at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Mr.

The Public Library of Black Mountain has received another book by Stephen Meader whose stories are so popular with boys. This one, entitled The Buckboard Stranger, has an air of mystery about it that is intriguing Chuck and Barney, pals in sports, in fishing, and in hunting, make discoveries, little by little, that touch the life of the Buckboard Stranger, who came to their little New Hampshire town from faraway Texas. Read the story to find out what good times the boys have and how cleverly they expose the Stranger for what he is.
