As We See Ourselves

—Scott.

"The music goes around and around..." The reference is to our assembly programs, many of them featuring John Cooley and his Combo. If you haven't heard the Combo, you've missed something mighty fine, and if you haven't heard of the Combo, you might be interested to know that the First World War is over. Yessir! Mr. Cooley is a big man when he has a trumpet in his hand.

That reference to music might well be applied to the everyday grind at Owen. Seems like there are two other things to do just as soon as you finish this, and you step to a lively tune.

For instance, the Beta Club is inducting new members. It's all top secret, confidential, but if the honor roll is any indication, the Beta club will double or triple its membership sometime soon. You can get quite a reaction in junior and sophomore hopeful circles by the most casual mention of new Beta's.

There's a rumor, too, about a grand dance, sponsored jointly by the Student Council and the Beta club, or else two shindigs, one for each organization. Time and place are undecided as yet, but a cordial invitation has been extended to everybody with the price of admission or a rich feller.

Any news from Owen that fails to mention the cafeteria is a gross miscarriage of justice. Food is just naturally dear to a ten-ager's heart and no other subject can arouse such enthusiasm around here. Pin a rose on the luncheon staff, from Mrs. Deal on down!

"What can you do?" "Well, what do you want to do?" That's the story in the senior English classes. The emphasis is on the future and even more strongly on each individual's ability to shape his destiny. Look out, World, here we come!

PRIMARY SCHOOL MENU.

Monday, Feb. 6—Spaghetti with chili, garden peas, cabbage and carrot salad, cake with lemon icing, bakery bread, milk, butter.

Tuesday, Feb. 7—Meat loaf, green beans, mashed potatoes, cranberry crunch, biscuits, milk, butter.

Wednesday, Feb. 8—Brunswick stew, cabbage and raisin salad, blackberry pie, hot rolls, milk, butter.

Thursday, Feb. 9—Pinto beans, buttered potatoes, turnip greens, pineapple pudding, corn muffins, milk, butter.

Friday, Feb. 10—Baked fish, diced buttered potatoes, tossed salad, cookies, corn muffins, milk, butter.

If butter is not served on the plates, all food is seasoned with it.
